Ike Signals For Flood Relief

French Launch Reprisal Attack

2,000 Estimated Killed In Africa; Reserves Called

CASABLANCA, Aug. 23 (AP)—The French hurled troops and foreign legionnaires into reprisal attacks along a 100-mile fighting front today against rebellious North African tribesmen.

The death toll from the fighting that began last Saturday was estimated tonight at around 2,000.

At Aix les Bains, France, Premier Edgar Faure ordered up military reserves to raise manpower for the fighting.

At United Nations, 17 African and Asian countries asked Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold to intervene and try to stop the fighting. Hammarskjold made no comment or commitment.

Faure has spent the last two days at Aix les Bains talking with Moroccan factions — both friendly to France and opposed — in an effort to end the differences that have brought Frenchmen and North Africans to a bloody battlefield.

Number Of Troops Secret

Official secrecy guarded the number of legionnaires, Senegalese and marines moving into the Atlas Mountain strongholds of Berber horsemen, under cover of tanks, jet fighters and armored cars.

But it was a major expeditionary force in action, now bolstered by the new call-up decree.

"Order must be maintained," Faure said in announcing the call-up.

His statement paralleled a declaration by Jacques Soustelle, governor general of Algeria, who said in the face of a surprise massacre of French and Moroccans in his area "we will not yield."

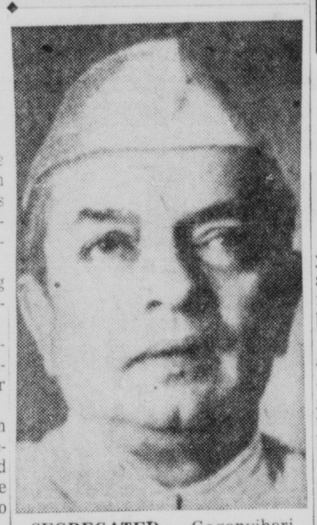

Faure Ignores Tension

Premier Faure took a strong line of calling up reservists in the face of observable tension within his government over developments in North Africa.

A number of French reserves in Morocco had already been called to the colors. More will be called up there as well as in France.

Already most of France's first line troops, once stationed in Germany, have been shipped to North Africa, their places taken by reserves with limited training.

The pursuit of the rebellious Moroccans was stepped up with the launching of the drive on a 100-mile front in the vicinity of Oued Zem, where 80 Frenchmen were killed in a surprise outbreak Saturday.

Ravaged Area Rallies Force For Recovery

White House Steps To Meet Disaster Give Morale Boost

[By The Associated Press]

The massed power of the nation yesterday was thrown into the struggle to redeem foundering northeastern states from their trial by floods.

President Eisenhower, after an anxious flight into the sorely disabled region, promised the federal government will do "everything that is possible" to bring the area back to health.

If necessary, he said, he will call an emergency session of Congress. At the same time, he summoned all Americans to give freely to the Red Cross to aid suffering individuals and families.

It's every citizen's responsibility, he said, to help cope with "this great disaster."

The President's forthright steps brought a light of hope into a night of despair.

The scourged region gradually was gathering strength to fight its way out of the ordeal. But extreme hardships still prevailed.

$75,000,000 Allocation

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson listed a 75-million-dollar allocation from the President's emergency fund to aid Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

Workers, left without jobs by destroyed industries, were assured of unemployment payments.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. said 50,000 of approximately 66,000 telephones knocked out of commission in Rhode Island and Massachusetts have been restored to service.

Army engineers, reinforcing their equipment with hired private trucks and drivers, took up a far-flung mission of clearing rubble, bracing weakened bridges, burying contaminated food.

Massachusetts set in motion a 55-million dollar bond issue for use in repairing water and sewage systems, highways, bridges and other public properties.

CIO Sets Up Relief Fund

In Woonsocket, R. I., half of the city's 5,000-man industrial force was back on the job, many in boots, swabbing out mud-gorged factories and dismantling and cleaning machinery to get it going again.

The CIO, in Washington, set up a flood relief fund with a starter of $100,000—to help an estimated 50,000 members made homeless or jobless by the catastrophe.

Four spans over the deadly Delaware between New Jersey and Pennsylvania were reopened. Four others still were restricted to emergency use only, and two others still were closed.

There still was massive distress. The death toll remained at 180, but many people were missing.

Tentative damage estimates ranged up toward three billion dollars.

Nine Killed As Plane Demolishes Houses

At least nine persons were killed yesterday when a large Air Force transport plane, crippled by engine trouble, crashed in flames into three small frame houses near the Charleston (S. C.) Air Force Base. Five of the 11-member crew of the Flying Boxcar were trapped and died in the wreckage. Four civilians were hospitalized. (AP Photofax)

Federal Fund Set In Motion By President

Special Congress Session Possible As Leaders Polled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower today set in motion what Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson estimated as an 80-to-100 million dollar federal flood relief program for the Northeast.

Peterson said Eisenhower declared "total war" against the flood disaster.

White House officials said the President was in contact with congressional leaders in both parties informing them as to what he and his aides were considering and seeking their opinions. Some leaders have not been reached because they are in far off places but officials will continue to try to reach them tomorrow.

White House press secretary James Hagerty said a special session of Congress is "always in the picture and is still a possibility until we get further along with our discussions."

Agencies Check Funds

Peterson said "we are going to try to move with all the resources of the government in alleviating this disaster."

Peterson spoke to newsmen at a White House news conference after representatives of eight federal agencies explored what money they had available to help, with the understanding that the funds could be replaced later by Congress.

Peterson said nobody knows the total damage but it appears that with the 80 million dollars he mentioned as a minimum, Connecticut would need 25 million dollars, Pennsylvania 25 million dollars, Massachusetts 15 million dollars, and Rhode Island, New Jersey and New York 5 million dollars each.

Ike Flies Over Flood Areas

Peterson designated the army corps of engineers to help rehabilitate public facilities in the affected areas, such as sewers, streets, public buildings and the like.

Eisenhower flew over much of the flood areas in the Northeast this morning, and held a conference with governors at Hartford, Conn. He said there that people should contribute generously to the Red Cross relief program, and also that he would call congress into special session if that seemed necessary.

The civil defense agency is coordinating federal efforts.

Peterson said that aside from the Army engineers, it would be some time before he can determine what agencies can help, but that is being explored.

1,000 Trailers Available

He said a study is underway into what agencies can make loans to businessmen, farmers and householders. He said the housing agencies have about 1,000 trailers which may be drawn on to take care of some of the homeless.

Arthur Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, said ODM is exploring the possibility of using part of its $2,100,000,000 revolving fund for defense mobilization for loans or guaranteeing loans for reconstruction or rehabilitation of facilities which produce defense items. He said about 900 million dollars of this fund has not yet been committed.

Nine Die When Plane Smashes Three Houses

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—A huge Air Force transport plane, crippled by engine trouble, crashed in flames into three small frame houses near the Charleston Air Force Base before dawn today, exploded and killed at least nine airmen and civilians.

Fire spread in every direction and lit the sky for miles. Heat held back would-be rescuers.

Five of the 11-member crew were trapped and died in the C119 Flying Boxcar which first hit a tree and broke into chunks of flaming wreckage.

Bodies of four of the 10 persons who lived in the three houses were identified. Rescue workers probed the charred remains of the building on the chance others had died.

The six surviving airmen and four civilians were hospitalized. None was believed hurt critically.

The plane burst into flame shortly after it and a sister ship took off on a routine night flight. A North Charleston fireman said he saw two flashes from the stricken C119 before it fell into the Liberty Park community some 10 miles from the center of Charleston about 2 a.m.

"I heard the plane coming," said David Nelson, who was in his home a short distance away. "Everybody in my house jumped up. We didn't try to help. It was too hot. We just ran."

Economist Says Law Helps Keep Prices Too High

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Government economist Jesse Markham told a congressional inquiry today the federal anti-price discrimination law keeps prices to the consumer higher than they need be.

Markham spoke out at a public hearing which brought a chorus of demands for more vigorous enforcement of trust busting laws. He is associate professor of economics at Princeton University and is a consultant to the federal trade commission.

Markham was the lead-off witness for nine days of hearings conducted by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) for the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Enforcement Funds Lacking

Kilgore himself suggested the government handicaps its anti-trust and antimonopoly programs by failing to provide enough money and staff for adequate enforcement. Markham and other witnesses agreed.

Markham said Congress provides no more money to run the FTC than it does for the battle monuments commission. He said the budget for the FTC division responsible for combatting monopolistic mergers is about the size of the amount Congress provides its members for postage.

Markham and economists Joel Dirlam and Richard Heflebower, the other witnesses, disagreed on some other points.

No Recommendations Made

Markham found fault with some features of the Robinson-Patman act which forbids discriminatory price manipulations that tend to reduce competition, but he refrained from any specific recommendation that it be amended or repealed.

He did say the law contains some built-in provisions which themselves "foster discrimination" and that "it results in more rigid, more uniform and higher prices to the consumer than would prevail in the absence of the act."

Markham said some big business firms could sell articles cheaper because of their marketing facilities, but that sometimes the law prevents the firms from passing this savings along to the consumer.

Two Britons Fly Jet To U. S., Back Home In 14 Hours

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Two nonchalant British airmen breakfasted in London this morning, nipped over to New York for lunch and flew back home to dine with their wives tonight.

They did it by Canberra jet bomber and the whole thing took just over 14 hours.

Pilot John Hackett and navigator Peter Moneypenny averaged 481.52 miles an hour on their transatlantic shuttle, and that included 35 minutes for a lunch of scrambled eggs at New York's Floyd Bennett Airfield.

As they climbed out of their sleek twin-jet at the London Airport they were nearly mobbed by hundreds of cheering men and women who broke through a police cordon.

Not VIP Treatment

Segregation Of Indian Envoy In Houston Brings Apologies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—India's ambassador, who was segregated so deftly in Texas yesterday that he thought he was being honored, today became the surprised recipient of profuse apologies from the United States government, the mayor of Houston and sundry others.

When ambassador Gaganvihari Lallubhai Mehta and his secretary, B. A. Rajagopalan, appeared in the public dining room of Houston's International Airport yesterday, Mrs. Mary Alley, restaurant supervisor, decided they must be Negroes. So she asked them to move to a small private dining room—in such polite tones that they thought they were getting de luxe treatment reserved for important visitors.

Repercussions Feared

But when news that the ambassador had been segregated came out, worry and agitation spread from Houston to Washington. An international furore was feared.

The State Department, in the person of Secretary of State Dulles, hastened to telegraph an apology to Mehta. It also sent an official expression of regret to the Indian government at New Delhi.

Mayor Roy Hofheinz of Houston, offered an apology "in behalf of every citizen of Houston."

Frank Mullen, manager of the airport dining room, said he was "terribly embarrassed and upset by the unfortunate incident."

Mrs. Alley, the restaurant supervisor, would not comment.

Witnesses of the incident said yesterday Mrs. Alley explained she thought the two Indians were Negroes and said "The law's the law."

Exception To Texas Law

Texas law forbids serving Negroes and white persons in the same dining room. However, the city of Houston's contract with the federal government for operation of the airport contains a ban against discrimination.

Mehta was en route from Washington to Mexico City when he stopped in Houston. After enjoying his meal, he resumed his flight.

He said at Mexico City today that he left Houston without knowing the reason for changing rooms. He said they were asked to make the change with the explanation that instructions had been issued to show them every courtesy.

Living Cost Hits Highest Point In 1955

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Living costs edged up in July for the second consecutive month to the highest point in 1955.

The index announced today by the Labor Department showed a rise of three-tenths of one per cent in July, the largest increase since May, 1954.

A department spokesman noted the increases this year were modest and said there still was substantial stability. Living costs rose two-tenths of one per cent in June, the first rise since November, 1954. Government officials had predicted the slight July increase, mainly because of higher food costs expected.

July statistics showed higher prices for most fresh fruits and for such items as men's haircuts and home permanent wave refill kits.

Costs of housing, household operation and medical care reached new record levels.

The increase meant a penny an hour pay raise for about 650,000 workers of the General Motors and Ford Motor Companies who have wage rates geared to the fluctuations of the index.

The July index figure was 114.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average. It was five-tenths of one per cent below July, 1954.

Joseph A. Clarety, Labor Department price division official, said that despite the two slight increases, the index still continues to move in a narrow range with substantial stability.

Fruit crop damage by cold weather in some of the Southern states last March was blamed for some of the big jumps in food prices. Peaches cost almost twice as much as they did in July, 1954.

Wildcat Dock Strike Ties Up Ships At N.Y.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Denial of an ex-convict's work permit blew up today into a wildcat longshoremen's strike that tied up ships all along the Hudson River waterfront.

Fourteen vessels, including the huge Queen Mary, were affected by the 4,200 striking pier workers.

While the walkout was set off by the plight of John (Mickey) McLoughlin, it apparently was aimed at the New York-New Jersey waterfront commission.

The commission, whose job it is to police the piers of the vast port of New York, had cancelled McLoughlin's temporary work permit because of his criminal record.

Coleman Leads In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 23 (AP)—Atty. Gen. J. P. Coleman grabbed an early lead in the race for Mississippi governor tonight.

With 226 of 1,850 precincts reporting, Coleman had 15,036 votes to 10,265 for attorney Paul Johnson.

Reports indicated a heavy vote would be cast in the runoff Democratic primary.

Old timers predicted more than 400,000 ballots would be marked.

The winner will replace Gov. Hugh White, who cannot run for re-election. Republican opposition is negligible.

Tawes Will Actively Seek Governorship

ST. MARGARET'S, Md., Aug. 23 (AP)—Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, who has been considered a possible Democratic candidate for governor in previous elections, made known today he will actively seek the nomination in 1958.

He also told Democrats assembled for an annual watermelon party at the home of former Anne Arundel County State Sen. Frank M. Duvall that "it is not too soon for us to begin thinking about the campaign in 1956."

Nixons To Make Tour Of Africa And Near East

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Vice President Nixon and his blonde wife will make a good will tour of the Near East and Africa this fall, probably in November.

The White House announced the trip today and said it was being made at President Eisenhower's request to improve American relations with countries of the area.

Although "Africa" was included in the scope of the tour, there was no mention of any visits to Algeria or the protectorate of Morocco, where the French are engaged in putting down insurrections. It is understood the tour will skirt such troubled territory and include only independent countries of the region.

The Nixons have teamed up twice before as good will ambassadors, with results that pleased the President. They made a 45,000-mile trip around the world in 1953 and a swing through the Caribbean earlier this year.

A staff of diplomatic specialists from the State Department will accompany them on their next journey. An itinerary, with dates, will be made public later, the White House said.

Little Speller Up To $16,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Little Gloria Lockerman, a champion speller from Baltimore, tonight piled up her television quiz show winnings to $16,000 by spelling off this entire sentence:

"The belligerent astigmatic anthropologist annihilated innumerable chrysanthemums."

The 12-year-old Negro girl, dressed spic and span in her Sunday best and grinning like a Cheshire kitten, had almost no trouble with the tricky words.

Next week she can try for $32,000 on the CBS program, "The $64,000 Question."

Rooftop Water Tank Smashes Into Theater

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—A huge rooftop water tank crashed through the ceiling of the 48th Street Theater today, smashing the first seven rows of seats.

The theater was closed for the summer and the only person in the building was the porter, Harold Blakey, 46. He "ran like hell" when he heard the ceiling crackling.

The 10,000 gallon tank made a 60-foot hole in the roof and demolished the orchestra pit.

Relief Payments Drop

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP) — Relief payments in July dropped for the fourth month in a row, it was reported today by the Department of Public Welfare which in May thought the demand would be higher than available funds.

93 New Polio Cases

BOSTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—There were 93 new cases of polio reported in Massachusetts today—center of a New England outbreak—bringing the total for the year to 1,767 as compared to 212 cases on the same date in 1954.

The unofficial count of polio deaths in the six-state New England area stood at 80 today.

Lead In Missing Ransom Mystery Checked By FBI

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—There were indications today the FBI has its first real lead in the mystery of the missing Greenlease ransom money in the discovery of a $20 bill earlier this month at Minot, N. D.

Several developments indicated the FBI attaches considerable importance to the discovery. The federal agency detailed a large squad of agents to the Minot area after the find. And it was reported to be checking on the movements of certain figures in the ransom case and on their associates to determine whether they have been in the Minot area.

The bill found Aug. 4 by Roger Lind, an attendant at the Minot Airport, possibly is the first to show up from the missing $303,720 in ransom money.

The discovery was the first to be announced by the FBI although three other bills previously were reported found.

This was considered significant since the FBI is known to have the serial numbers of the bills of each packet in the record $600,000 ransom paid by the wealthy parents of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City, kidnaped and slain in September 1953.

Carl Austin Hall, the kidnap-killer, told the FBI before he was executed with Bonnie Brown Heady, his partner in the crime, that he broke open only two or three packets to get money to spend just before his arrest here Oct. 6, 1953.

Boy Didn't Want To Be "Sissy," Slays His Mother

PALMDALE, Calif. Aug. 23 (AP)—"The kids at school kept calling me a square because I wouldn't steal or anything. I didn't want to be a sissy. I was tired of being a square."

And so, sheriff's deputies said today, 13-year-old Jimmy Thomson loaded his rifle, hid it under a bed, waited two hours for his mother to come home—and shot her to death.

Lancaster Substation deputies said they received a call late yesterday from the boy, who said: "I just shot my mother. I think she's dead. I'll wait here at the house for you."

In the house officers found Mrs. Hilda Thomson, 51, dead on the kitchen floor. Three .22 bullets were in her head. Her blouse and pedal pushers were ripped.

Jimmy was booked at the substation on suspicion of murder.

The boy's father, Harry, and brother, John, 18, were away at work. The father is a truck driver at Edwards Air Force Base.

Deputies said Jimmy told them: "I wanted to run away from home to show the other kids I wasn't a sissy.

"My mother caught me packing up my things to leave home."

Officers said the victim's blouse and pedal pushers had been ripped in a search for money to finance the runaway.

Jimmy is a blond, husky 140-pounder, usually mild-mannered and shy.

Session Seen Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Members of Congress agreed today the federal government should pitch in and help the flooded Northeast, but many felt no special session of Congress was necessary.

President Eisenhower has announced he will call a special session if needed to provide adequate federal aid to the stricken areas.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, said that "of course" everyone will cooperate to relieve suffering in the flood states. But he added in a statement:

"I think if the President's staff will submit to him the statutes already on the books he will find considerable authority to act now. That is what Congress would approve his doing.

"No one can commit Congress to any course of action. But if even more authority is needed I have no doubt he (the President) will receive the utmost of cooperation upon the presentation of his specific proposals."

On the other hand, Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla) said, "I think it would be wise for Eisenhower to call a special session. I think the leadership on both sides should respond."

Downed Airman Freed By Reds

KUMHWA, Korea, Wednesday, Aug. 24 (AP)—The Communists yesterday returned an injured U. S. Air Force pilot and his comrade's body, then shook hands with the Americans on this battlefield of bitter memory.

The air of courtesy contrasted strangely with the angry exchange which preceded the delivery of Lt. Guy Bumpas, Jackson, Miss., and the body of Capt. Charles W. Brown, West Louisville, Ky.

The Communists had asserted Bumpas was "reconnoitering" over North Korea when his light plane was shot down by Red guns Aug. 17. The U. N. Command angrily charged that "trigger-happy" Reds shot down the plane over the neutral zone. The Reds said Brown was killed in the crash.

Before he crossed a tiny bridge to the allied side, Bumpas was questioned by Lt. Col. Jung Thu Ko, who was trying to establish that the injured pilot was well treated.

"I was treated fairly well," the listening Americans heard Bumpas say, and when pressed further: "The treatment — considering the circumstances — was all right . . . as far as I know — I'm no doctor —I seem to be getting along all right."

Ravaged Area Rallies Force For Recovery

White House Steps To Meet Disaster Give Morale Boost

[By The Associated Press]

The massed power of the nation yesterday was thrown into the struggle to redeem foundering northeastern states from their trial by floods.

President Eisenhower, after an anxious flight into the sorely disabled region, promised the federal government will do "everything that is possible" to bring the area back to health.

If necessary, he said, he will call an emergency session of Congress. At the same time, he summoned all Americans to give freely to the Red Cross to aid suffering individuals and families.

It's every citizen's responsibility, he said, to help cope with "this great disaster."

The President's forthright steps brought a light of hope into a night of despair.

The scourged region gradually was gathering strength to fight its way out of the ordeal. But extreme hardships still prevailed.

$75,000,000 Allocation

Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson listed a 75-million-dollar allocation from the President's emergency fund to aid Connecticut, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

Workers, left without jobs by destroyed industries, were assured of unemployment payments.

The New England Telephone and Telegraph Co. said 50,000 of approximately 66,000 telephones knocked out of commission in Rhode Island and Massachusetts have been restored to service.

Army engineers, reinforcing their equipment with hired private trucks and drivers, took up a far-flung mission of clearing rubble, bracing weakened bridges, burying contaminated food.

Massachusetts set in motion a 55-million dollar bond issue for use in repairing water and sewage systems, highways, bridges and other public properties.

CIO Sets Up Relief Fund

In Woonsocket, R. I., half of the city's 5,000-man industrial force was back on the job, many in boots, swabbing out mud-gorged factories and dismantling and cleaning machinery to get it going again.

The CIO, in Washington, set up a flood relief fund with a starter of $100,000—to help an estimated 50,000 members made homeless or jobless by the catastrophe.

Four spans over the deadly Delaware between New Jersey and Pennsylvania were reopened. Four others still were restricted to emergency use only, and two others still were closed.

There still was massive distress. The death toll remained at 180, but many people were missing.

Tentative damage estimates ranged up toward three billion dollars.

The winner will replace Gov. Hugh White, who cannot run for re-election. Republican opposition is negligible.

Lead In Missing Ransom Mystery Checked By FBI

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—There were indications today the FBI has its first real lead in the mystery of the missing Greenlease ransom money in the discovery of a $20 bill earlier this month at Minot, N. D.

Several developments indicated the FBI attaches considerable importance to the discovery. The federal agency detailed a large squad of agents to the Minot area after the find. And it was reported to be checking on the movements of certain figures in the ransom case and on their associates to determine whether they have been in the Minot area.

The bill found Aug. 4 by Roger Lind, an attendant at the Minot Airport, possibly is the first to show up from the missing $303,720 in ransom money.

The discovery was the first to be announced by the FBI although three other bills previously were reported found.

This was considered significant since the FBI is known to have the serial numbers of the bills of each packet in the record $600,000 ransom paid by the wealthy parents of six-year-old Bobby Greenlease of Kansas City, kidnaped and slain in September 1953.

Carl Austin Hall, the kidnap-killer, told the FBI before he was executed with Bonnie Brown Heady, his partner in the crime, that he broke open only two or three packets to get money to spend just before his arrest here Oct. 6, 1953.

Nine Killed As Plane Demolishes Houses

At least nine persons were killed yesterday when a large Air Force transport plane, crippled by engine trouble, crashed in flames into three small frame houses near the Charleston (S. C.) Air Force Base. Five of the 11-member crew of the Flying Boxcar were trapped and died in the wreckage. Four civilians were hospitalized. (AP Photofax)

Economist Says Law Helps Keep Prices Too High

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Government economist Jesse Markham told a congressional inquiry today the federal anti-price discrimination law keeps prices to the consumer higher than they need be.

Markham spoke out at a public hearing which brought a chorus of demands for more vigorous enforcement of trust busting laws. He is associate professor of economics at Princeton University and is a consultant to the federal trade commission.

Markham was the lead-off witness for nine days of hearings conducted by Sen. Kilgore (D-WVa) for the Senate Antitrust and Monopoly subcommittee.

Enforcement Funds Lacking

Kilgore himself suggested the government handicaps its anti-trust and antimonopoly programs by failing to provide enough money and staff for adequate enforcement. Markham and other witnesses agreed.

Markham said Congress provides no more money to run the FTC than it does for the battle monuments commission. He said the budget for the FTC division responsible for combatting monopolistic mergers is about the size of the amount Congress provides its members for postage.

Markham and economists Joel Dirlam and Richard Heflebower, the other witnesses, disagreed on some other points.

No Recommendations Made

Markham found fault with some features of the Robinson-Patman act which forbids discriminatory price manipulations that tend to reduce competition, but he refrained from any specific recommendation that it be amended or repealed.

He did say the law contains some built-in provisions which themselves "foster discrimination" and that "it results in more rigid, more uniform and higher prices to the consumer than would prevail in the absence of the act."

Markham said some big business firms could sell articles cheaper because of their marketing facilities, but that sometimes the law prevents the firms from passing this savings along to the consumer.

Tawes Will Actively Seek Governorship

ST. MARGARET'S, Md., Aug. 23 (AP)—Comptroller J. Millard Tawes, who has been considered a possible Democratic candidate for governor in previous elections, made known today he will actively seek the nomination in 1958.

He also told Democrats assembled for an annual watermelon party at the home of former Anne Arundel County State Sen. Frank M. Duvall that "it is not too soon for us to begin thinking about the campaign in 1956."

Rooftop Water Tank Smashes Into Theater

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—A huge rooftop water tank crashed through the ceiling of the 48th Street Theater today, smashing the first seven rows of seats.

The theater was closed for the summer and the only person in the building was the porter, Harold Blakey, 46. He "ran like hell" when he heard the ceiling crackling.

The 10,000 gallon tank made a 60-foot hole in the roof and demolished the orchestra pit.

Two Britons Fly Jet To U. S., Back Home In 14 Hours

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Two nonchalant British airmen breakfasted in London this morning, nipped over to New York for lunch and flew back home to dine with their wives tonight.

They did it by Canberra jet bomber and the whole thing took just over 14 hours.

Pilot John Hackett and navigator Peter Moneypenny averaged 481.52 miles an hour on their transatlantic shuttle, and that included 35 minutes for a lunch of scrambled eggs at New York's Floyd Bennett Airfield.

As they climbed out of their sleek twin-jet at the London Airport they were nearly mobbed by hundreds of cheering men and women who broke through a police cordon.

Nixons To Make Tour Of Africa And Near East

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Vice President Nixon and his blonde wife will make a good will tour of the Near East and Africa this fall, probably in November.

The White House announced the trip today and said it was being made at President Eisenhower's request to improve American relations with countries of the area.

Although "Africa" was included in the scope of the tour, there was no mention of any visits to Algeria or the protectorate of Morocco, where the French are engaged in putting down insurrections. It is understood the tour will skirt such troubled territory and include only independent countries of the region.

The Nixons have teamed up twice before as good will ambassadors, with results that pleased the President. They made a 45,000-mile trip around the world in 1953 and a swing through the Caribbean earlier this year.

A staff of diplomatic specialists from the State Department will accompany them on their next journey. An itinerary, with dates, will be made public later, the White House said.

Little Speller Up To $16,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—Little Gloria Lockerman, a champion speller from Baltimore, tonight piled up her television quiz show winnings to $16,000 by spelling off this entire sentence:

"The belligerent astigmatic anthropologist annihilated innumerable chrysanthemums."

The 12-year-old Negro girl, dressed spic and span in her Sunday best and grinning like a Cheshire kitten, had almost no trouble with the tricky words.

Next week she can try for $32,000 on the CBS program, "The $64,000 Question."

Relief Payments Drop

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP) — Relief payments in July dropped for the fourth month in a row, it was reported today by the Department of Public Welfare which in May thought the demand would be higher than available funds.

Segregation Of Indian Envoy In Houston Brings Apologies

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—India's ambassador, who was segregated so deftly in Texas yesterday that he thought he was being honored, today became the surprised recipient of profuse apologies from the United States government, the mayor of Houston and sundry others.

When ambassador Gaganvihari Lallubhai Mehta and his secretary, B. A. Rajagopalan, appeared in the public dining room of Houston's International Airport yesterday, Mrs. Mary Alley, restaurant supervisor, decided they must be Negroes. So she asked them to move to a small private dining room—in such polite tones that they thought they were getting de luxe treatment reserved for important visitors.

Repercussions Feared

But when news that the ambassador had been segregated came out, worry and agitation spread from Houston to Washington. An international furore was feared.

The State Department, in the person of Secretary of State Dulles, hastened to telegraph an apology to Mehta. It also sent an official expression of regret to the Indian government at New Delhi.

Mayor Roy Hofheinz of Houston offered an apology "in behalf of every citizen of Houston."

Frank Mullen, manager of the airport dining room, said he was "terribly embarrassed and upset by the unfortunate incident."

Mrs. Alley, the restaurant supervisor, would not comment.

Witnesses of the incident said yesterday Mrs. Alley explained she thought the two Indians were Negroes and said "The law's the law."

Exception To Texas Law

Texas law forbids serving Negroes and white persons in the same dining room. However, the city of Houston's contract with the federal government for operation of the airport contains a ban against discrimination.

Mehta was en route from Washington to Mexico City when he stopped in Houston. After enjoying his meal, he resumed his flight.

He said at Mexico City today that he left Houston without knowing the reason for changing rooms. He said they were asked to make the change with the explanation that instructions had been issued to show them every courtesy.

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 23 (AP)—Police fished the body of a middle aged man out of the water near city dock this afternoon and papers on his person identified him as Charles Tyne Newsome of Wrightsville, Ga.

Living Cost Hits Highest Point In 1955

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Living costs edged up in July for the second consecutive month to the highest point in 1955.

The index announced today by the Labor Department showed a rise of three-tenths of one per cent in July, the largest increase since May, 1954.

A department spokesman noted the increases this year were modest and said there still was substantial stability. Living costs rose two-tenths of one per cent in June, the first rise since November, 1954. Government officials had predicted the slight July increase, mainly because of higher food costs expected.

July statistics showed higher prices for most fresh fruits and for such items as men's haircuts and home permanent wave refill kits.

Costs of housing, household operation and medical care reached new record levels.

The increase meant a penny an hour pay raise for about 650,000 workers of the General Motors and Ford Motor Companies who have wage rates geared to the fluctuations of the index.

The July index figure was 114.7 per cent of the 1947-49 average. It was five-tenths of one per cent below July, 1954.

Joseph A. Clarety, Labor Department price division official, said that despite the two slight increases, the index still continues to move in a narrow range with substantial stability.

Fruit crop damage by cold weather in some of the Southern states last March was blamed for some of the big jumps in food prices. Peaches cost almost twice as much as they did in July, 1954.

93 New Polio Cases

BOSTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—There were 93 new cases of polio reported in Massachusetts today—center of a New England outbreak—bringing the total for the year to 1,767 as compared to 212 cases on the same date in 1954.

The unofficial count of polio deaths in the six-state New England area stood at 80 today.

Boy Didn't Want To Be "Sissy," Slays His Mother

PALMDALE, Calif. Aug. 23 (AP)—"The kids at school kept calling me a square because I wouldn't steal or anything. I didn't want to be a sissy. I was tired of being a square."

And so, sheriff's deputies said today, 13-year-old Jimmy Thomson loaded his rifle, hid it under a bed, waited two hours for his mother to come home—and shot her to death.

Lancaster Substation deputies said they received a call late yesterday from the boy, who said: "I just shot my mother. I think she's dead. I'll wait here at the house for you."

In the house officers found Mrs. Hilda Thomson, 51, dead on the kitchen floor. Three .22 bullets were in her head. Her blouse and pedal pushers were ripped.

Jimmy was booked at the substation on suspicion of murder.

The boy's father, Harry, and brother, John, 18, were away at work. The father is a truck driver at Edwards Air Force Base.

Deputies said Jimmy told them: "I wanted to run away from home to show the other kids I wasn't a sissy.

"My mother caught me packing up my things to leave home."

Officers said the victim's blouse and pedal pushers had been ripped in a search for money to finance the runaway.

Jimmy is a blond, husky 140-pounder, usually mild-mannered and shy.

Federal Fund Set In Motion By President

Special Congress Session Possible As Leaders Polled

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower today set in motion what Civil Defense Administrator Val Peterson estimated as an 80-to-100 million dollar federal flood relief program for the Northeast.

Peterson said Eisenhower declared "total war" against the flood disaster.

White House officials said the President was in contact with congressional leaders in both parties informing them as to what he and his aides were considering and seeking their opinions. Some leaders have not been reached because they are in far off places but officials will continue to try to reach them tomorrow.

White House press secretary James Hagerty said a special session of Congress is "always in the picture and is still a possibility until we get further along with our discussions."

Agencies Check Funds

Peterson said "we are going to try to move with all the resources of the government in alleviating this disaster."

Peterson spoke to newsmen at a White House news conference after representatives of eight federal agencies explored what money they had available to help, with the understanding that the funds could be replaced later by Congress.

Peterson said nobody knows the total damage but it appears that with the 80 million dollars he mentioned as a minimum, Connecticut would need 25 million dollars, Pennsylvania 25 million dollars, Massachusetts 15 million dollars, and Rhode Island, New Jersey and New York 5 million dollars each.

Ike Flies Over Flood Areas

Peterson designated the army corps of engineers to help rehabilitate public facilities in the affected areas, such as sewers, streets, public buildings and the like.

Eisenhower flew over much of the flood areas in the Northeast this morning, and held a conference with governors at Hartford, Conn. He said there that people should contribute generously to the Red Cross relief program, and also that he would call congress into special session if that seemed necessary.

The civil defense agency is coordinating federal efforts.

Peterson said that aside from the Army engineers, it would be some time before he can determine what agencies can help, but that is being explored.

1,000 Trailers Available

He said a study is underway into what agencies can make loans to businessmen, farmers and householders. He said the housing agencies have about 1,000 trailers which may be drawn on to take care of some of the homeless.

Arthur Flemming, director of the Office of Defense Mobilization, said ODM is exploring the possibility of using part of its $2,100,000,000 revolving fund for defense mobilization for loans or guaranteeing loans for reconstruction or rehabilitation of facilities which produce defense items. He said about 900 million dollars of this fund has not yet been committed.

Session Seen Unnecessary

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Members of Congress agreed today the federal government should pitch in and help the flooded Northeast, but many felt no special session of Congress was necessary.

President Eisenhower has announced he will call a special session if needed to provide adequate federal aid to the stricken areas.

Senate Democratic leader Lyndon Johnson of Texas, said that "of course" everyone will cooperate to relieve suffering in the flood states. But he added in a statement:

"I think if the President's staff will submit to him the statutes already on the books he will find considerable authority to act now. That is what Congress would approve his doing.

"No one can commit Congress to any course of action. But if even more authority is needed I have no doubt he (the President) will receive the utmost of cooperation upon the presentation of his specific proposals."

On the other hand, Rep. Wickersham (D-Okla) said, "I think it would be wise for Eisenhower to call a special session. I think the leadership on both sides should respond."

Flood Forecasting Facilities Deficient

Weather Bureau Unable To Give Proper Warning

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Weather Bureau said today current scientific knowledge of forecasting—and available facilities—just weren't adequate to provide sufficient warning for the great Northeast flood disaster.

But under enlarged appropriations for new facilities and research, officials reported, steps were under way even before the floods struck which will lead to "great improvements" in the future.

"If all this had happened two years hence," said W. E. Hiatt, chief of hydrologic (river warning) services, "the savings in property and life would have been tremendous."

Edward Vernon, chief of weather synopsis and forecasts, said "we've got a great deal of work to do" in improving forecasts dealing with the erratic extremes of nature. He added that rainfall in some cases was two times above longstanding records and "we've had little or no experience with this sort of thing before."

These officials and others gave this picture of the obstacles to long range advance warnings on such things as flash floods, and what is being done in this field:

Most of the recent havoc was wrought by flash floods, which rise within minutes or a few hours in small rivers and headwater streams and obviously leave little if any time for warnings.

Rain patterns within hurricanes follow swirling belts which are highly variable and unpredictable. In the recent case, Hurricane Diane herself suddenly swerved toward the northeast when she had been expected to take a northerly or northwest course.

Even when hurricane rains are expected, forecasters generally can warn only of "heavy rains," meaning two or three inches or more. There is little or no experience upon which to base precise estimates of extremes of more than 12 inches of rain within 24 hours, or 17 to 18 inches within 48 hours, such as hit some points last week.

Many of the small streams where devastation was greatest have no facilities now for observation of stream levels or rainfall, or flood warning services. But along the larger and longer rivers, such as the Delaware, where such facilities are available, flood crests were predicted "very accurately" within a few inches, 12 to 24 hours in advance.

President Practices What He Preaches

HARTFORD, Conn., Aug. 23 (AP)—President Eisenhower believes in practicing what you preach.

On a national radio broadcast today he appealed to the American public to contribute to the Red Cross as a quick means of alleviating flood suffering.

A few minutes later he handed his own contribution to the national Red Cross chief, E. Roland Harriman. Said Harriman afterward:

"Action of the President was his own thoughtful expression of sympathy for the many thousands of flood victims translated into effective action. His gift was a generous one — an example to others who have not yet acted."

The amount was not disclosed.

McKeldin Sets Sail For Europe

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin leaves tomorrow on a one-month "business and pleasure" trip to Europe which will include visits to France, Israel, Turkey, Greece, England and Ireland.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. McKeldin, U. S. Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff and Mrs. Sobeloff.

The party is scheduled to sail from New York aboard the Queen Mary about 12:30 p.m. and arrive at Cherbourg, France, Aug. 29.

After a brief visit to Paris, they will arrive in Tel Aviv, Israel, Sept. 1 where McKeldin is to dedicate a cultural building constructed by the AFL and CIO in honor of the late Phillip Murray.

The rest of the itinerary includes visits to Istanbul and Athens Sept. 8-11, and to England and Ireland Sept. 12-21.

The group will sail from Cobh, Ireland, Sept. 21 and return to New York Sept. 27.

It will be McKeldin's second trip to Europe this year. In May he accompanied University of Maryland officials to graduation exercises at its overseas branch at Heidelberg, Germany.

Romania Urges Troop Pullout

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Romanian Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, who recently defended the continued presence of Soviet troops in his country, has called for "the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the territories of European states."

He left no doubt he is particularly anxious to see the eastern defense alliance's European bases liquidated.

The Bucharest Radio said today the premier made his proposal at a rally last night in Bucharest celebrating the 11th anniversary of Romania's liberation from the Nazis. Some top Soviet leaders, including Russian Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev, were present.

Two weeks ago the premier announced Russian occupation forces will stay in Romania until U. S. forces withdraw from western Europe. In his speech last night, without naming specific countries, he said:

"We are of the opinion that an important prerequisite of lasting peace is the liquidation of the military bases situated on foreign territories, some of which are, as is known, in the neighborhood of our country.

"Of great importance for the consolidation of peace would be the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the territories of European states and the reestablishment in this respect of the situation which prevailed before the Second World War."

Valentino, Dead 29 Years, Remembered

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23 (AP)—Today is the 29th anniversary of the death of Rudolph Valentino, Latin matinee idol of the silent screen, and it did not pass unnoticed.

Three floral tributes were placed at his crypt in a Hollywood Cemetery mausoleum.

The cemetery said two dozen red carnations were ordered by a woman who declined to give her name. The Rudolph Valentino Society of America, with headquarters in Buffalo, N. Y., sent two dozen red roses. And a bouquet of American Beauty roses were sent by "Joan Valentino, E. and D. Baroni." There was no further identification on the card.

Ditra Flame, known as the "Woman in Black" because of her annual visits to the crypt in mourning garb, did not appear. Last year she announced that she was making her last visit.

Teacher Admits Writing Poems Praising Spies

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — A dancing teacher at a New York children's summer camp today inadvertently testified she wrote poems and songs in praise of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Miss Edyth Segal, of Manhattan, made the admission during questioning before a joint state legislative committee investigating Communist penetration of children's summer camps and resorts.

She invoked the Fifth Amendment at least 30 times in refusing to answer questions about her political affiliations and writings.

She pleaded the Fifth Amendment when shown two pamphlets — "Poems and Songs for Ethel and Julius Rosenberg," and "I Call to You across the Continent— for Morton Sobell in Alcatraz and to the memory of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg." Sobell was given a long prison term for espionage.

"I'm extremely proud of everything I have written," she told the committee, "but because your committee will twist this to the opposite, I am compelled to decline to answer."

Pressed concerning the pamphlets, she cried out:

"I was on the side of the nation of France and the Pope when I wrote those songs!"

Immediately she tried to retract and have the statement stricken from the record, but the committee insisted it remain.

Dixie Coal Producers Due To Agree To Hike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Southern coal producers refused to say officially today whether they will go along with the two-dollar-a-day wage increase negotiated by the northern segment of the soft coal industry.

However, it was indicated the southern group will agree eventually to the terms. The southern association's board of directors held a meeting today following an executive committee session yesterday.

The wage increase was negotiated last week by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union, and Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn.

Scot Takes Special Citizenship Oath

ELIZABETH, N.J. Aug. 23 (AP)—A 57-year-old mechanic, a native of Scotland, took a special oath to become a naturalized citizen of the United States today because he is a member of a religious sect which forbids the bearing of arms.

While 89 other foreign born residents of the county took a mass oath of citizenship, William Hosie stood silent.

Afterwards, Union County Clerk Henry G. Nulton administered a special oath to Hosie, which deleted the phrase requiring him to bear arms if needed in behalf of his adopted country. However, he would still be required to perform noncombat duties if called on in time of emergency.

Steps To Curb Mine Electrocutions Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines today urged employers and workers in the coal mining industry to take steps to stop a rising toll of deaths from electrocution and use of machinery.

Director J. J. Forbes said that twice as many men were killed in underground electrical accidents during the first seven months of this year as in the similar 1954 span. There were 15 deaths during the period from electric shock, 12 of them in underground operations, compared with 8 deaths in the 1954 period, 6 of them underground.

The loss of life due to machinery accident increased to 19 in the first seven months of 1955 from 13 in the comparable period a year earlier.

Witness Tells Probe Ill-Fated Boat 'Decrepit'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Three witnesses were asked by a Coast Guard inquiry board today if they believed the Levin J. Marvel, which foundered Aug. 12 with a loss of 14 lives, was seaworthy. Their answers varied, but none was complimentary.

An attorney who once backed out of a scheduled trip aboard the Marvel said: "The boat appeared to be in decrepit condition."

A Coast Guard inspector who once made an unofficial survey of her said: "My impression was that she was in deteriorated condition."

And a shipyard manager who once supervised her overhaul said: "I think the vessel was seaworthy . . . I don't believe I would have cared to have gone out on it."

The board, drawing near the end of its quest for the cause of the tragedy off North Beach, Md., in Chesapeake Bay, also interviewed a 17-year-old crewman of the Marvel and a U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist.

Stephen Morton, of Annapolis, Md., tow-headed high school boy who was the only deckhand on the 64-year-old schooner's last voyage, was questioned at length about the lack of a larger crew.

The hearing, which began Monday, is expected to end sometime Wednesday.

Irked By Strike, Housewife Locks Hubby Out Of House

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—When the CIO United Auto Workers called a strike at the Harrison Sheet Steel Co., they ran squarely up against Mrs. Esther Quigley — wife of a union man.

Her husband, Andrew Quigley, is a steward for Local 1214 of the UAW which represents 450 employes of the firm.

What irked her most, Mrs. Quigley told reporters, was that the walkout a week ago came while negotiations for a new wage contract were in progress.

"Our kids need milk," she said. "Lots of mothers whose husbands work there — their kids are crying for milk.

"And why? Because the men won't go back to work and let negotiations go on while they're working."

Mrs. Quigley enlisted a committee of 45 strikers' wives. "And we called on the union officials. My husband was one of them. But all we got was promises," she said.

So, Mrs. Quigley said, she has locked her husband out of the house. The strike continued today.

McKeldin Sets Sail For Europe

ANNAPOLIS, Aug. 23 (AP) — Gov. McKeldin leaves tomorrow on a one-month "business and pleasure" trip to Europe which will include visits to France, Israel, Turkey, Greece, England and Ireland.

He will be accompanied by Mrs. McKeldin, U. S. Solicitor General Simon E. Sobeloff and Mrs. Sobeloff.

The party is scheduled to sail from New York aboard the Queen Mary about 12:30 p.m. and arrive at Cherbourg, France, Aug. 29.

After a brief visit to Paris, they will arrive in Tel Aviv, Israel, Sept. 1 where McKeldin is to dedicate a cultural building constructed by the AFL and CIO in honor of the late Phillip Murray.

The rest of the itinerary includes visits to Istanbul and Athens Sept. 8-11, and to England and Ireland Sept. 12-21.

The group will sail from Cobh, Ireland, Sept. 21 and return to New York Sept. 27.

It will be McKeldin's second trip to Europe this year. In May he accompanied University of Maryland officials to graduation exercises at its overseas branch at Heidelberg, Germany.

Romania Urges Troop Pullout

LONDON, Aug. 23 (AP)—Romanian Premier Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej, who recently defended the continued presence of Soviet troops in his country, has called for "the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the territories of European states."

He left no doubt he is particularly anxious to see the eastern defense alliance's European bases liquidated.

The Bucharest Radio said today the premier made his proposal at a rally last night in Bucharest celebrating the 11th anniversary of Romania's liberation from the Nazis. Some top Soviet leaders, including Russian Communist Party boss Nikita Khrushchev, were present.

Two weeks ago the premier announced Russian occupation forces will stay in Romania until U. S. forces withdraw from western Europe. In his speech last night, without naming specific countries, he said:

"We are of the opinion that an important prerequisite of lasting peace is the liquidation of the military bases situated on foreign territories, some of which are, as is known, in the neighborhood of our country.

"Of great importance for the consolidation of peace would be the withdrawal of all foreign troops from the territories of European states and the reestablishment in this respect of the situation which prevailed before the Second World War."

Valentino, Dead 29 Years, Remembered

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23 (AP)—Today is the 29th anniversary of the death of Rudolph Valentino, Latin matinee idol of the silent screen, and it did not pass unnoticed.

Three floral tributes were placed at his crypt in a Hollywood Cemetery mausoleum.

The cemetery said two dozen red carnations were ordered by a woman who declined to give her name. The Rudolph Valentino Society of America, with headquarters in Buffalo, N. Y., sent two dozen red roses. And a bouquet of American Beauty roses were sent by "Joan Valentino, E. and D. Baroni." There was no further identification on the card.

Ditra Flame, known as the "Woman in Black" because of her annual visits to the crypt in mourning garb, did not appear. Last year she announced that she was making her last visit.

Teacher Admits Writing Poems Praising Spies

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — A dancing teacher at a New York children's summer camp today inadvertently testified she wrote poems and songs in praise of executed atom spies Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

Miss Edyth Segal, of Manhattan, made the admission during questioning before a joint state legislative committee investigating Communist penetration of children's summer camps and resorts.

She invoked the Fifth Amendment at least 30 times in refusing to answer questions about her political affiliations and writings.

She pleaded the Fifth Amendment when shown two pamphlets — "Poems and Songs for Ethel and Julius Rosenberg," and "I Call to You across the Continent— for Morton Sobell in Alcatraz and to the memory of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg." Sobell was given a long prison term for espionage.

"I'm extremely proud of everything I have written," she told the committee, "but because your committee will twist this to the opposite, I am compelled to decline to answer."

Pressed concerning the pamphlets, she cried out:

"I was on the side of the nation of France and the Pope when I wrote those songs!"

Immediately she tried to retract and have the statement stricken from the record, but the committee insisted it remain.

Dixie Coal Producers Due To Agree To Hike

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Southern coal producers refused to say officially today whether they will go along with the two-dollar-a-day wage increase negotiated by the northern segment of the soft coal industry.

However, it was indicated the southern group will agree eventually to the terms. The southern association's board of directors held a meeting today following an executive committee session yesterday.

The wage increase was negotiated last week by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers Union, and Harry M. Moses, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Assn.

Scot Takes Special Citizenship Oath

ELIZABETH, N.J. Aug. 23 (AP)—A 57-year-old mechanic, a native of Scotland, took a special oath to become a naturalized citizen of the United States today because he is a member of a religious sect which forbids the bearing of arms.

While 89 other foreign born residents of the county took a mass oath of citizenship, William Hosie stood silent.

Afterwards, Union County Clerk Henry G. Nulton administered a special oath to Hosie, which deleted the phrase requiring him to bear arms if needed in behalf of his adopted country. However, he would still be required to perform noncombat duties if called on in time of emergency.

Steps To Curb Mine Electrocutions Urged

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP)—The Bureau of Mines today urged employers and workers in the coal mining industry to take steps to stop a rising toll of deaths from electrocution and use of machinery.

Director J. J. Forbes said that twice as many men were killed in underground electrical accidents during the first seven months of this year as in the similar 1954 span. There were 15 deaths during the period from electric shock, 12 of them in underground operations, compared with 8 deaths in the 1954 period, 6 of them underground.

The loss of life due to machinery accident increased to 19 in the first seven months of 1955 from 13 in the comparable period a year earlier.

Witness Tells Probe Ill-Fated Boat 'Decrepit'

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Three witnesses were asked by a Coast Guard inquiry board today if they believed the Levin J. Marvel, which foundered Aug. 12 with a loss of 14 lives, was seaworthy. Their answers varied, but none was complimentary.

An attorney who once backed out of a scheduled trip aboard the Marvel said: "The boat appeared to be in decrepit condition."

A Coast Guard inspector who once made an unofficial survey of her said: "My impression was that she was in deteriorated condition."

And a shipyard manager who once supervised her overhaul said: "I think the vessel was seaworthy . . . I don't believe I would have cared to have gone out on it."

The board, drawing near the end of its quest for the cause of the tragedy off North Beach, Md., in Chesapeake Bay, also interviewed a 17-year-old crewman of the Marvel and a U. S. Weather Bureau meteorologist.

Stephen Morton, of Annapolis, Md., tow-headed high school boy who was the only deckhand on the 64-year-old schooner's last voyage, was questioned at length about the lack of a larger crew.

The hearing, which began Monday, is expected to end sometime Wednesday.

Irked By Strike, Housewife Locks Hubby Out Of House

CHICAGO, Aug. 23 (AP)—When the CIO United Auto Workers called a strike at the Harrison Sheet Steel Co., they ran squarely up against Mrs. Esther Quigley — wife of a union man.

Her husband, Andrew Quigley, is a steward for Local 1214 of the UAW which represents 450 employes of the firm.

What irked her most, Mrs. Quigley told reporters, was that the walkout a week ago came while negotiations for a new wage contract were in progress.

"Our kids need milk," she said. "Lots of mothers whose husbands work there — their kids are crying for milk.

"And why? Because the men won't go back to work and let negotiations go on while they're working."

Mrs. Quigley enlisted a committee of 45 strikers' wives. "And we called on the union officials. My husband was one of them. But all we got was promises," she said.

So, Mrs. Quigley said, she has locked her husband out of the house. The strike continued today.

Stock Market Posts Best Average Gain In Months

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP) — The stock market bounced out of the doldrums today for its best average gain since March.

After a slow start, rails began to rise. This touched off chemicals and spread to all major divisions.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed $1.80 to $173.10 for its biggest rise since March 23 when it rose $2.10. Trading volume rose to 1,890,000 shares from 1,430,000 shares yesterday.

Anaconda leaped 4⅝ to 76⅝, a new high, following news that the company had discovered a new copper mine in Chile that has promise of being one of the greatest in the world.

General Dynamics picked up 2 points to close at 59⅛ after the Navy disclosed that the company would construct two more of its atom-powered submarines.

In kicking off the rally, the rails were repeating similar performances in recent sessions of duller character. Gains in freight car loadings and the smart recovery in first half earnings over 1954 have attracted favorable interest by the investing public.

American Telephone was again the day's most active stock closing off ⅛ at 179¼ on 104,000 shares traded.

American Back From Russia Says Soviets Trying To Upgrade, Boost Volume Of Diet

Editor's Note: Charles J. Hearst of Cedar Falls, Iowa, was one of the American farmers who toured the Soviet Union in July and August. He returned to the United States yesterday, the first of the touring party to arrive. Hearst, who observed his 51st birthday in Russia on Aug. 2, is a past president of the Iowa Farm Bureau Federation and a former vice president of the Black Hawk County, Iowa, farm bureau. On his farm on Route 4, Cedar Falls, he specializes in purebred shorthorn cattle and Hampshire hogs crossed with Poland Chinas. In the following article, he gives his impression of his visit to Russia.

By CHARLES J. HEARST

NEW YORK, Aug. 23 (AP)—After completing some 10,000 miles of travel in the U.S.S.R., certain definite impressions are retained. The Russians have a problem of upgrading and increasing the volume of an already starchy diet and they are making at least two rather spectacular efforts to meet the problem.

We saw no signs of many people going hungry or likely to, at least in the near future, but the diet is heavy in bread and potatoes, roughly around 70 per cent carbohydrates. The population increase of some three million people per year will in the foreseeable future increase substantially the pressure of population demands on food and fiber. There is a tremendous lack of volume and variety of consumer goods now, and under present policy that situation does not seem likely to improve much.

The most spectacular efforts to meet the situation are the big increase — present and planned — in acreage devoted to raising corn, and the new lands program, that is, the great plowing up of the virgin lands in West Siberia and Kazakhstan.

Livestock production has lagged far behind the increase in population and demand. The present great emphasis on corn growing is to increase the amount of food for more and better livestock production. Eggs are at from two-thirds of a ruble to over a ruble each, depending on where you buy them. Meat and particularly meat with any fat on it is scarce and high and milk, some of it of dubious quality, is high in price. All are often unavailable to the consumer whose income appears to average 750 to 800 rubles per month. The Russians peg the ruble at 25 cents.

The rich Kuban and the irrigated areas seem to be about the only places where corn can be grown as we grow it in the corn belt of the U.S.A. Lack of moisture in the warmer areas and lack of growing season in the moisture areas limit the productivity of corn in other places.

However, by following their planned practice of cutting corn very green and using it for silage or for fresh feed to supplement their dry summer pastures, some utility of corn can be made and is being made in areas that could not effectively produce corn for grain.

When you take into consideration the fact that the best corn will replace wheat, vegetables or some other crop now being grown, the spectacular corn acreage figures lose part of their significance. From about 10 million acres, corn was stepped up to around 40 million acres, and is expected to be produced on about 70 million acres in the near future. That is a tremendous area, but if the greater part of this is to be harvested short and green and if much of it replaces other crops now in production the increase in feed may not be as significant as it first appears.

The second part of Russia's effort to increase production is the new lands program. When one of our party asked "If this area will grow wheat why hasn't this been farmed before?" he got the following reply: "Nobody thought of it before." This isn't quite true because we talked to people who have been in the area since 1912 and before. Certainly there are places in the new lands area that have grown wheat long before now. Perhaps the harsh climate and the need to furnish feed for horse or ox power made it too difficult to stay on here or perhaps there are other important considerations.

Almost complete mechanization and the building of substantial homes in larger communities will undoubtedly contribute to greater and more sustained production here. The area is large. It extends from the semiarid desert in the south to the frost line — roughly the Trans-Siberian Railroad in the north. There was frost damage evident there and immature wheat had been hurt.

In the southern or drier part of the area around the town of Atbasar, in the Akmolinsk region, yields last year averaged around 16 to 17 bushels per acre. This year, an unusually dry one, yields were down to 5 and 6 bushels per acre and we were told if it had not been for the virgin lands, would have been even lower.

It seems there is a reserve of moisture of fertility, or both, in the virgin land not found in land that has been cultivated even a few years.

Farther north yields were reported higher, 22 to 25 bushels per acre last year, and again down substantially this year because of dry weather.

Girl Starts Fires To 'Make Self Loved'

SAINT-NAZAIRE, France, Aug. 23 (AP)—When the firemen were called four times to the same house within an hour, they began to suspect something was wrong.

The first time it was old papers burning in the attic of the house of M. and Mme. Lebrun. The second call was for a curtain ablaze. The third time a partition burned and the fourth time newspapers smouldered in the attic again.

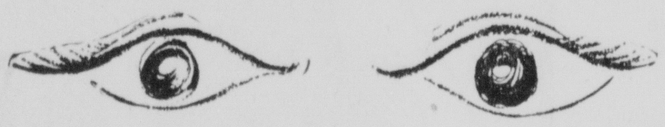

Police finally led away 17-year-old Madeleine Lebrun, who confessed she started the fires.

A fortuneteller had told her to light them, she said, so as to make herself loved.

A wise girl shaves her legs twice a week in the summer.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

In a quest for charm, removal of hair is a grooming "must." Personal daintiness such as this in the warmer months is even more important than during the rest of the year. If you shave your legs only once a week in the winter, then be a wise girl and do it twice a week during the summer. Remember this if you have winter vacation coming up with sunny climes as your destination. Fuzz under the arms is not only unsightly, but it harbors the odor from even the mildest perspiration. And, there is nothing more unappealing than bronzed legs with a slight overcast of fuzz.

The time to "defuzz" is right after a bath, when your skin is clean and pliant. Be sure your legs are perfectly dry. More and more fastidious women are using the electric shaver because it is quick, effective, convenient and requires no soap, water, or messy creams. It leaves the skin soft and supple and eliminates the danger of little nicks and scrapes which result from shaving with a non-electric razor. Not only can these blemishes lead to infection, but they are unsightly.

A most feminine electric shaver in pink or blue comes in a little black jewel-case box decorated with gay flowers. This electric shaver, although as sturdy as a man's shaver, is far different as it has been designed for women specifically. Wherever you travel, this shaver can be plugged in, for it works on either direct or alternating current.

Brushing a little talcum on the legs before using the shaver is wise. The hair removal is so gentle that a deodorant may be used immediately after shaving. You can use the shaver at the back of your neck if you need that to keep the short hairdo fuzz free.

In a quest for charm, removal of hair is a grooming "must." Personal daintiness such as this in the warmer months is even more important than during the rest of the year. If you shave your legs only once a week in the winter, then be a wise girl and do it twice a week during the summer. Remember this if you have winter vacation coming up with sunny climes as your destination. Fuzz under the arms is not only unsightly, but it harbors the odor from even the mildest perspiration. And, there is nothing more unappealing than bronzed legs with a slight overcast of fuzz.

The time to "defuzz" is right after a bath, when your skin is clean and pliant. Be sure your legs are perfectly dry. More and more fastidious women are using the electric shaver because it is quick, effective, convenient and requires no soap, water, or messy creams. It leaves the skin soft and supple and eliminates the danger of little nicks and scrapes which result from shaving with a non-electric razor. Not only can these blemishes lead to infection, but they are unsightly.

A most feminine electric shaver in pink or blue comes in a little black jewel-case box decorated with gay flowers. This electric shaver, although as sturdy as a man's shaver, is far different as it has been designed for women specifically. Wherever you travel, this shaver can be plugged in, for it works on either direct or alternating current.

Brushing a little talcum on the legs before using the shaver is wise. The hair removal is so gentle that a deodorant may be used immediately after shaving. You can use the shaver at the back of your neck if you need that to keep the short hairdo fuzz free.

Homemakers Booths Are Judged

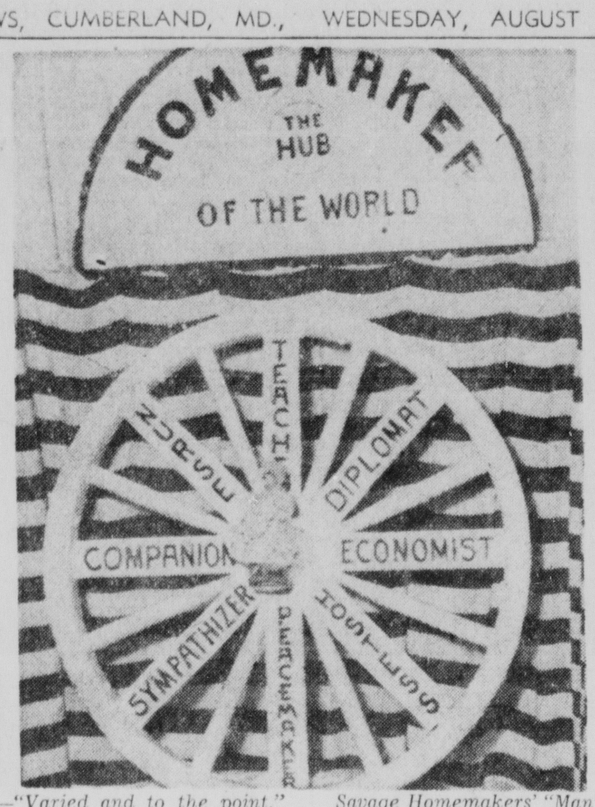

Mount Savage, Town Creek and Mapleside Homemakers Clubs won the first three places in the theme booth exhibits at the fair yesterday.

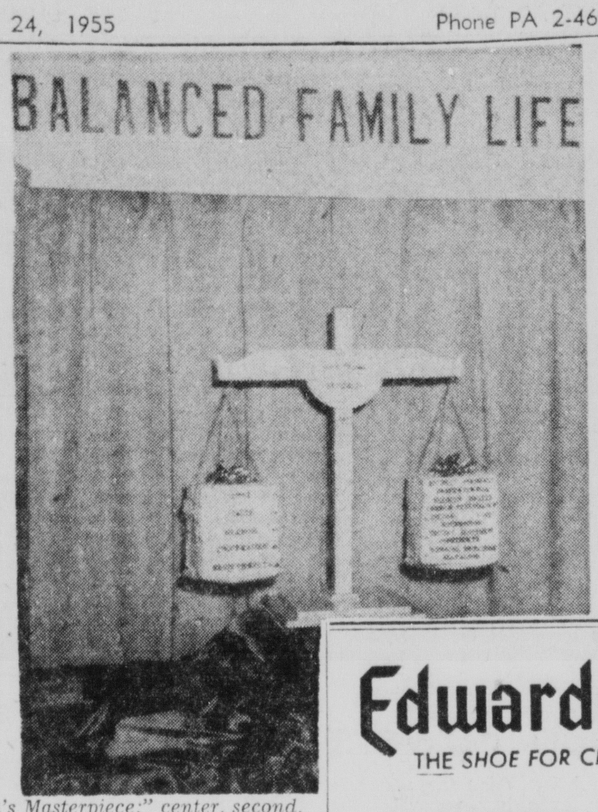

Lonaconing, McCoole, Lonaconing Young Women, Spring Gap, and LaVale received the other top awards.

This year the clubs chose their own themes, and judging was scored on originality, practical, timely, one main idea; accurate information of chosen subject; attractiveness as to neatness and good arrangement; also which attracted the attention and causes the spectator to stop and look; presented in unusual way and readable signs, arouse interest; and whether it stimulates action or decision on the part of people viewing it.

First place award of $25 was made to Mt. Savage club. It's theme, "Man's Masterpiece," denoting Christian brotherhood of man, had an artist at an easel drawing a line through various diseases, depicting the erasing of their past harmfulness to man and his conquering such diseases through knowledge, cooperation, finance and perseverence.

THEME BOOTH WINNERS—"Varied and to the point," was the remark of a judge regarding the subjects chosen by the Homemakers for this year's theme booths at the Cumberland Fair. To the left is first prize winner, Mt. Savage Homemakers' "Man's Masterpiece;" center, second, Town Creek Club's "Homemaker, Hub of the World;" and third, Mapleside's "Balanced Family Life." Twenty-four clubs in the county competed.

Town Creek Club received second place and $22 for its booth depicting the homemaker as the "Hub of the World." A large white wagon wheel was used with each spoke labeling the homemaker as an economist, diplomat, hostess, peace maker, sympathiser, companion, nurse and teacher. The booth was done in red, white and blue.

Mapleside Club's theme, "Balanced Family Life," received third place and $20. All in silver and blue it consisted of a home-made balance scale with five wrapped packages in each side. On the one side was love, faith, sharing, cooperation and responsibility, balanced on the other by ready respect, courtesy, understanding; prayer, worship, church attendance; time, income, recreation; mutual agreement, conferences; working, providing and managing. Across was "Our Goal-Security," and the sign "Balanced Family Life."

Lonaconing was fourth and received $18. It consisted of a large mirror framed in red, with a blue caption, "Wanted for Civil Defense," at the top and "Reward-Preparedness," at the bottom. It was flanked on either side by three American flags. As each viewer approached the booth his image was reflected as the one wanted.

McCoole received fifth place and $16 for its "Extension Is Education Use It." It contained a replica of a large school with a graduate coming down the steps, which were printed cards of extension services for the homemaker projects.

Lonaconing Young Women's Club received sixth place and $14 with the theme, "World Peace." All the flags of the United Nations, a globe and the Big Four at a conference table were displayed.

Spring Gap was seventh and received $13. It used the theme "Which Will Win Out?" On the left was a large soaring white dove of peace and on the left a replica of the H bomb. On the backdrop a large question mark below the theme caption.

LaVale receiving eighth place and $12 used as its theme, "Guidance" under it "Parents Responsibility for Good Citizens." On a blue dias were a child's hand clasped in an adults hand depicting the theme.

Ten dollar awards were given to the Progressive Young Women's Club booth based on the Bible, "Come unto Me All of Ye," with Christ with arms extended and a white child on one side and a colored child on the other and a question mark in between.

Eckhart's "Saving Is a Good American Custom," was depicted with streamers from the caption to a large blue pottery bank on a red, white and blue platform, and paper pennies pasted on the streamers.

Shaft's was on safety with the caption, "Slow Down and Live." It showed a car on the wrong side of the road and two tourists approaching on their side, with death in the background and the caption, "Death Lurks."

Bowling Green had a platform of four steps with the caption "Education the University of Maryland Extension Service," and on the steps, of black with gold letters, 4-H, Junior Extension, Homemakers, Rural Women's Short Course.

North Cumberland, "Safety in the Home," showed various gadgets to be used in the home for safety, as a cork on the end of scissors.

Bedford Road's theme, "Justice Is the Greatest Interest of Man on Earth," had as a caption, "The Eyes of the World Are on the White House." It contained an American flag, a globe and a small replica of the White House.

Flintstone showed how through its 40 years of service better homemaking was learned with a worthy use of leasure time, international understanding, recreation, appreciation of antiques, and community service.

Midland's "Slow Down and Live," had the National Safety Building conference and signs of what happens to those who do not observe highway safety signs.

Union Grove's booth in black and white consisted of the word "Peace" in large white letters above white plaster paris hands folded in prayer.

East Side had a treasure chest of knowledge containing projects learned through extension.

Valley Road, under the caption, "Atom Power," questioned "Wise or Foolish" with one scene using the knowledge for good, showed a family relaxing and using atomic power, and the other a home destroyed by atomic power.

Pleasant Valley's was based on Safety, depicting safety in the home, highway and farm, showed scenes of each and how to achieve safety.

Midlothian was "Security Today's Challenge," with an open Bible.

Happy Valley, "The Church Reaches Out," showed a white church in front of a large white cross.

Pleasant Grove, "My World Shall Never Fail" quoted from the Bible, showed an open Bible and a vase of flowers.

Polish Mountain, "The Best Dish," used white streamers to an open Bible in front of a large dish of fruit, against a white background.

County Official Praises City Bicentennial

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday highly praised the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial for the program held during the past week.

Lemmert commended the efforts of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Col. F. Egerton Powell, chairman of the Bicentennial Committee, French Sensabaugh, who directed the pageant, and all the 900 persons who took part in the spectacle.

He then singled out J. William Hunt, managing editor of the Cumberland Sunday Times, for his work in providing the historical material and collaborating with Sensabaugh in writing the Bicentennial pageant story. Lemmert said the selection by Hunt of the historical items in the pageant was the basis of its success.

More than 23,000 persons witnessed the 90-minute pageant at Fort Hill Stadium last week. It depicted the story of George Washington's career here in 1755, the arrival of Gen. Braddock, the final review of military troops by Washington here in 1794 during the Whisky Rebellion and also the capture of Generals Crook and Kelly in Cumberland by a band of McNeill's Rangers from Moorefield during the Civil War.

$29,003 Is Spent On County Roads

The July report of the Allegany County Roads Department was submitted yesterday by J. Walker Chapman, supervisor.

A total of $29,003 was spent by the department for maintenance and repairs of roads and bridges, and storing and distributing surplus food.

Labor costs were $13,186.53, materials amounted to $10,442.76 and equipment, $5,373.71.

Flood Relief Funds Asked By Red Cross

A second appeal has been made to officials of the Allegany County Red Cross Chapter for funds for flood area victims.

E. Roland Harriman, chairman of the American Red Cross has asked that the local chapter put forth every effort to organize a fund campaign to raise money for the flood sufferers. He pointed out that the National Red Cross has sent 260 trained workers into the flood areas to meet needs and prepare for a major rehabiliation program.

The Red Cross is operating 107 shelters, housing and feeding 12,000 homeless, Harriman said. More than 400 nurses and 150 doctors have volunteered their services to operate the stations around the clock.

Harriman said more than 8,000 families will need help, and that Red Cross relief required might exceed the five million dollar mark.

Allegany County Chapter's quota to meet this disaster will be $2,617.

Mrs. Lee Witherup said this morning that all funds received at the local Post Office will be earmarked entirely for flood relief in these flooded areas. Mrs. Witherup said some plan will be made to raise the needed money, and that all donations should be sent to the local Red Cross Chapter in the Post Office.

A damage suit resulting from a highway mishap April 17 on the Wellersburg road was docketed yesterday in Circuit Court.

Robert Gomer, through his attorney, Edward J. Ryan, filed suit for $2,500 damages from John Showalter, of Barrelville. The declaration states Gomer was riding his motorcycle and Showalter failed to give him the right of way causing the accident.

Gomer said his motorcycle was badly damaged and he suffered injuries to head and left shoulder.

Horse Used In Pageant Dies Of Colic

A seven-year-old horse which had participated in fine performances of the Bicentennial pageant, "Redskins and Redcoats" here last week, died at Fort Hill Stadium Monday afternoon.

Herman S. Greise, Valley Road, who owned the animal, said the animal became sick Sunday and did not participate in the final pageant performance that night.

Dr. C. N. Foose Jr., local veterinarian, said the horse died of colic.

The horse, one of a team loaned by Greise, had helped to pull one of the covered wagons used in pageant scenes.

Greise said he has called a Johnstown rendering firm to remove the animal's body.

Value placed on the animal was not disclosed.

City Civil Service Tests Set Monday

Civil Service examinations for several positions are scheduled Monday at Fort Hill High School.

City Clerk Wallace G. Ullery, Civil Service Commission secretary, said an examination for police sergeant will be held at 2 p. m.

At 7 p. m., examinations for assistant chief in the Fire Department, junior stenographer and humane officer are slated.

Rooms 108, 113, 115 and 132 have been reserved for the examinations, Ullery said.

County May Get Up To $400,000 From State Fees

Allegany County will receive an estimated $284,949 from state gasoline tax funds and $110,650.18 from motor vehicle registration fees for the fiscal year ending next June 30, according to a letter from C. L. Wannen, comptroller of the State Roads Commission.

Wannen said the motor vehicle registration fee money estimated for the fiscal year is based on the expected increase of these fees in 1956.

During the fiscal year ended June 30, 1955 the county received $286,738.72 in gasoline tax monies and $76,783.51 in motor vehicle registration fees.

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners uses these funds in operating county roads and in matching federal aid funds for new road projects.

Ralph R. Webster, county superintendent of schools, appeared before the board to inform them of receipt of a letter from the State Board of Education concerning $1,839 which the county will receive.

The money was allocated to Allegany County from the $20,000,000 state loan fund of 1949 for new school buildings. The legislation providing for the big state loan in 1949 provided that at the end of five years any balance was to be allocated to the various counties.

Webster said the $1,839 will be applied on the cost of the new elementary school in LaVale.

County Official Praises City Bicentennial

William H. Lemmert, president of the Allegany County Board of Commissioners, yesterday highly praised the Fort Cumberland Bicentennial for the program held during the past week.

Lemmert commended the efforts of the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, Col. F. Egerton Powell, chairman of the Bicentennial Committee, French Sensabaugh, who directed the pageant, and all the 900 persons who took part in the spectacle.

He then singled out J. William Hunt, managing editor of the Cumberland Sunday Times, for his work in providing the historical material and collaborating with Sensabaugh in writing the Bicentennial pageant story. Lemmert said the selection by Hunt of the historical items in the pageant was the basis of its success.

More than 23,000 persons witnessed the 90-minute pageant at Fort Hill Stadium last week. It depicted the story of George Washington's career here in 1755, the arrival of Gen. Braddock, the final review of military troops by Washington here in 1794 during the Whisky Rebellion and also the capture of Generals Crook and Kelly in Cumberland by a band of McNeill's Rangers from Moorefield during the Civil War.

$29,003 Is Spent On County Roads

A total of $29,003 was spent by the department for maintenance and repairs of roads and bridges, and storing and distributing surplus food.

Labor costs were $13,186.53, materials amounted to $10,442.76 and equipment, $5,373.71.

City Building Permits May Top $1,000,000

Building permit valuations, already exceeding last year by approximately $300,000 are expected to pass the million dollar mark this year.

Through July, permits granted for new construction, additions and improvements amount to $984,341, records at the building engineer's office show. This compares with the 12-month total last year of $688,060.50.

Although August is running as a "light" month, it appears certain the million dollar mark will be reached with better than four months to go. The overall figure is just $15,659 short at this point.

In the past 10 years, the million figure has been reached but twice. That was in 1950 when permits were valued at $1,086,590 and in 1952 when the low-rent housing project helped to swell the final figure to $2,066,128.

Other figures during the past decade include 1947 when the million mark was in sight with $998,005; in 1948 when the figure reached $806,945; in 1952 with $607,086.47 and in 1953 with $598,545. There were permits issued with a value of $213,890 in 1945 and for $600,393 in 1946. In 1949, the final figure was $515,790.

The month by month comparison so far with last year is as follows:

	1955	1954
January	$ 46,100	$ 13,650
February	217,950	17,700
March	164,758	41,550
April	224,483	97,000
May	148,400	54,025
June	101,600	170,650
July	81,050	48,900
August	———	38,450
September	———	88,925
October	———	37,825
November	———	61,410
December	———	38,475

City Building Permits May Top $1,000,000

Building permit valuations, already exceeding last year by approximately $300,000 are expected to pass the million dollar mark this year.

Through July, permits granted for new construction, additions and improvements amount to $984,341, records at the building engineer's office show. This compares with the 12-month total last year of $688,060.50.

Although August is running as a "light" month, it appears certain the million dollar mark will be reached with better than four months to go. The overall figure is just $15,659 short at this point.

In the past 10 years, the million figure has been reached but twice. That was in 1950 when permits were valued at $1,086,590 and in 1952 when the low-rent housing project helped to swell the final figure to $2,066,128.

Other figures during the past decade include 1947 when the million mark was in sight with $998,005; in 1948 when the figure reached $806,945; in 1952 with $607,086.47 and in 1953 with $598,545. There were permits issued with a value of $213,890 in 1945 and for $600,393 in 1946. In 1949, the final figure was $515,790.

The month by month comparison so far with last year is as follows:

	1955	1954
January	$ 46,100	$ 13,650
February	217,950	17,700
March	164,758	41,550
April	224,483	97,000
May	148,400	54,025
June	101,600	170,650
July	81,050	48,900
August	———	38,450
September	———	88,925
October	———	37,825
November	———	61,410
December	———	38,475

HOW MUCH CAN YOU SAVE?

"Not as much as I'd like to" is the standard answer. But wait: Count the little, unnecessary expenditures that you've simply got into the habit of making—and figure their dollar total for a year. You're likely to find it's considerable.

How many of those expenditures—how much of that total — could you forego without any real pain? That's how much more you can save, with a very little effort — if you will.

Washington County's Auditor Assails Commissioners' Financial Management

HAGERSTOWN, Aug. 23 (AP) — John K. Baker 3rd, the young public accountant hired by the Washington County commissioners to keep their financial affairs straight, told them today they had "failed to assume the responsibilities of management."

"Unless major steps toward reorganization are taken," he went on, "it will be impossible to obtain an effective, efficiently managed government which enjoys the confidence of the taxpayers."

It was the county auditor's second outburst in a week on the subject of financial management.

His target a week ago today was the county roads department, directly supervised by the county commissioners. He said the roads department was faced with a complete breakdown of financial management.

Eugene Geary, county roads supervisor, came back with a statement Baker's report was made up mostly of minor matters which could be easily misinterpreted.

Chester Delphey, one of the commissioners, said today it was "rather ironic" that Baker's criticisms grew out of a resolution the commissioners adopted last December directing him to study the accounting system of the county government and submit recommendations for an efficient, modern system.

Baker has been county auditor for three years. He has one of the largest public accounting businesses here and also has served for three years as auditor for the Hagerstown city government. He set up a detailed budget system for the city and overhauled the whole accounting department. The system now provides the head of each department with an up-to-the-minute reading on how much money he has spent and how much of his budget allowance remains.

Baker is a Republican. Both the county and city governments are controlled by Democrats.

Baker appeared before the county commissioners today with a written report which said six times in the past he has made recommendations for straightening out the financial tangle but no action was taken by the board.

Governor Inspects Big Tubes For Tunnel

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Gov. McKeldin and members of the State Roads Commission today inspected the building of four big double-barreled tubes which ultimately will be part of Maryland's tunnel under Baltimore harbor.

The 300-foot long tubes are being built on shipways at the Maryland Drydock Co.

They are about 35 feet in diameter and are made up of welded, circular strips of steel five-eighths of an inch thick.

In October, the four big tube sections will be plugged at each end and floated out into the water. They then will be encased in concrete and sunk to the bottom of the harbor, where they will lie in a trench under the harbor.

The four being built at Maryland Drydock will be hooked up with others being built by Bethlehem Steel in Baltimore and New York Shipbuilding Co. at Camden, N. J.

Modern pewter consists of tin hardened by the addition of antimony and copper.

Big Smokestack, Hit By Lightning, Might Collapse

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Lightning struck the top of a 150-foot smokestack in West Baltimore last night and the weakened stack today threatened nearby buildings and the power supply of a large section of the city.

Should the stack collapse, much of it would fall on a 13,000-volt power substation close by.

Police barricaded off the area in the vicinity of the American Ice Co. where the chimney is located. They also ordered the evacuation of two other buildings and diverted traffic on West Franklin Street, which carries the busy U.S. Route 40 through the city.

Two southbound tracks of the Pennsylvania Railroad line were also closed.

A contractor was called in and began throwing a scaffold around the stack to allow workmen to dismantle it brick by brick.

Lightning from the same storm also struck and destroyed two barns in Baltimore County, causing an estimated $17,000 in damages. The farms were owned by Baltimore County Sheriff Gilbert C. Miller and John Willingham.

The storm dumped 1.77 more inches of rain in the Baltimore area, bringing the total August precipitation to 16.5 inches.

Despite the heavy rains, restriction on the use of hoses continued in effect, water officials saying it was necessary to relieve the strain on the distribution in the Baltimore metropolitan area.

Under the restriction, residents in odd-numbered houses can use their hoses on odd-numbered days, even-numbered houses on even-numbered days.

Due to the rotation of the earth, one can put a shot farther if he throws to the west.

Capital Nearing Wettest August

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23 (AP) — Washington is nearing its all-time record for the wettest August in Weather Bureau history.

During a two-hour storm last night 1.41 inches of rain fell driven by gusts of wind as high as 40 miles an hour.

Heavy rains also fell in the nearby Prince Georges and Montgomery counties. At least 13 homes or buildings were struck by lightning. Four of the homes were badly damaged by the resulting fires.

TV Check Of Bridge Toll Booths Seen

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Maryland's director of toll bridges said today he is looking into the possibility of using closed-circuit television to check up on the operation of toll booths.

Louis J. O'Donnell announced he is going to Detroit to observe how police there use TV to spot traffic jams.

"I don't know if such a plan would be feasible here," he said. "But we're going to take a look at it."

One possible use is for a count, or at least frequent spot checks, on the number of passengers carried by cars passing through the toll booths.

Boats To Evacuate 1,000 In CD Test

PIKESVILLE, Md., Aug. 23 (AP)—Maryland's Civil Defense agency was busy today lining up 100 small boats for the experimental evacuation of 1,000 residents on Saturday from Middle River.

The exercise will test the feasibility of evacuating large groups from waterfronts areas along Chesapeak Bay. Middle River, for example, would be a prime target in case of an enemy air attack because of the big Glenn L. Martin aircraft factories there.

Baltimore Harbor Tunnel Land To Cost $8,200,000

BALTIMORE, Aug. 23 (AP)—Purchase of land for the Baltimore Harbor tunnel, now about 82 per cent complete, is going to cost about $8,200,000.

That's the estimate of John A. Magee, appraisal coordinator for the 130-million dollar project. Magee said today that properties already purchased along the 15.2 mile route have cost $4,240,000, and that remaining property should cost about four million more.

First estimates, on which the bond issue to finance the tunnel was based, placed the price of rights-of-way for the tunnel at $11,341,000. That figure later was reduced to $9,772,000.

Magee's firm, William Martien & Co., is one of two real estate companies given a controversial contract by the State Roads Commission to appraise the land along the right-of-way. The other firm is David M. Nichols and Co.

Russian People Take Cue From Leaders

At least until recently Russia's ordinary people —the great masses on which a Communist minority has kept a tight grip for almost 40 years—had observed well the lesson they had learned not to let their guard down with strangers, particularly foreigners.

But now, with an air of feeling he can take the cue from men currently at the top of the Soviet regime, Russia's man in the street seems to be showing those same peaceful hopes which are shared by his counterparts everywhere on this side of the iron curtain.

Unfortunately, however, the ordinary people are not the ones who determine what roads Russia will travel to her destiny.

American newsmen in sidewalk interviews in Moscow during the days since Geneva find the average Russian no longer fearful of seeming friendly. Their dispatches portray a public almost fervently hopeful of friendly understanding. Where once they would have shied away, they now appear eager to exchange views with foreigners.

They tell of their enthusiasm for the change in international relationships which they believe has occurred. One trio, including a man in a naval officer's uniform, urged a newsman to tell America that the people of Russia "want to live in peace."

While this new showing of friendliness by the Russian people is interesting, in no other country of the world does the government have to be concerned less about what its people want. The rulers of Russia have made abrupt changes in their course in the past. They will do so again when they decide the interests of communism will best be served by such action.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is Banking?

John J. McCloy, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase-Manhattan Bank in New York, defined the nature of banking in a manner that indicates the degree to which this service industry has become socialized in this country. He said:

". . . it is relevant to note that in supporting their objective to foster the soundness and capability of banks, the supervisory authorities place certain definite limits on the competitive process. For example banking is not a business which anyone can enter who has the necessary capital and who desires to go into it. Indeed, existing banks are not even free to expand as they may desire. The supervisory authorities—the comptroller of the currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the FDIC, or the various state banking agencies — exercise control over entry into banking; they control the ability of existing banks to establish new branches; and their approval is usually required for any increase in capital stock. Today in New York City, for example, it is not possible for a bank to open new branches in many areas of the city. Frequently the supervisory authorities will not permit additional offices on the ground that there is already an established bank in the area and the opening of a new branch might lead to excessive competition. This same situation prevails in many other areas of the country as well. Hence one of the primary requisites for free competition—freedom of entry—is generally absent in banking . . ."

It was never intended, either by the Congress or by state legislative bodies, when bank legislation was passed, that competition should be eliminated from banking, just as when railroad legislation was passed, it was never intended to reduce the railroads to non-competitive operations strangled by the bureaucrats of the Interstate Commerce Commission. These are two examples of bureaucratic excesses which do not serve the people who are led falsely to believe that they are in some manner protected by officials.

Mr. McCloy says: ". . . banking is not a business which anyone can enter . . ." which is only too true. But who are the political appointees who determine who is to be permitted to enter the banking business? It would be interesting if a congressional committee would gather data on how many employes of the Federal Reserve Board or the comptroller of the currency, who looks after banks in the federal system, or the state banking boards and control agencies have found employment with banks while they were working for government or immediately after they were fired or retired. It is not unusual to hear, a year or two in advance, that such and such an official will get a job in such and such a bank when he is retired—and he does.

But from what vast experience are these bank controllers and examiners recruited? Often they are lawyers without much practice who get a government job; often they are young men on the Civil Service to whom a million dollars is a shocking fact. Some of these bank examiners are so ignorant of normal business practices that their inspections become an absurdity at which practical bankers laugh but the recommendations of which they must obey.

The banks in a city like New York, in prosperous times, pile up money which they cannot use freely, but which life insurance companies can use freely. The laws governing the movement of money are so inconsistent that all sorts of side-line groups go into indirect banking business by devices which give them a competitive advantage in the principal function of any bank which is to lend money at interest with the object of making a profit.

Whenever, in the capitalist system, the object is to make a profit, the prospect of a loss is ever-present. The capitalist system is a risk economy. Socialism provides security by government guarantees; it also reverts to slavery, which is the surest way of guaranteeing security. If banks or any other industries in a capitalist country are to serve without any risk at all, then they become government institutions. When you look at McCloy's list of controlling agencies, it is clear how close the banks are to being government agencies. And if the bankers do what the government wants them to do, whether or not it is sound or even honest, the banker is a great man; otherwise, he can be hounded out of the business.

Ex-Secretary Harold Talbott Gets Revenge On Commerce Secretary

By Drew Pearson

(Editors' Note — Today Drew Pearson writes another column in his series on influence and conflict of interest in government.)

WASHINGTON — Repercussions of Harold Talbott's exit as Air Force secretary are still felt in the capital. The man who's feeling them most is Sinclair Weeks, the secretary of commerce.

"Sinny," as he's called in high GOP circles, is literally palpitating over an indirect "tip" from Talbott. Here is what happened.

When he left Washington, the ousted Air Force secretary was howling mad over failure of his fellow cabinet officers to defend him on the "conflict of interest" charge. So, shortly after resigning, Talbott entertained a group of newsmen at dinner, and taking one of them aside, dropped a confidential "tip" that the next congressional target over "conflict of interest" would be Sinclair Weeks.

Next morning the newsman called at the Commerce Department and asked for comment on Talbott's prediction. Weeks was immediately informed, and, taking it at face value, he called a hurry-up meeting at the White House.

Alarmed presidential aides agreed that the matter was serious. So, acting on the theory that a good offense is the best defense, they advised Weeks to strike out at Congress. The result was Weeks' press conference of August 11, in which he charged that the Democrats were staging a massive attack on free enterprise.

"I don't think the American people want anyone to play politics with defense or to play politics with prosperity," Weeks said in a carefully prepared statement.

But he declined to say, when questioned, just who was playing politics, and seemed quite vague on other matters.

This shotgun statement only had the effect of further arousing Congressman Manny Celler, the Brooklyn boy who proceeded to tangle more vigorously with the blue-blood cabinet member from Boston.

It's quite possible that Harold Talbott merely meant to have a good laugh at the administration which fired him, but anyway the result of his "tip" has been three refusals by Sinny Weeks to testify before Manny Celler's committee, and a great deal more scrutiny of the blue-chip business advisers who've been serving Weeks with very possible "conflict of interest."

Week's Roll Call

There are two categories of businessmen Sinny Weeks is worried about having investigated. They are:

1. The Business Advisory Council, which includes some of the biggest men on Wall Street, who not only advise Weeks on Eisenhower economic policy but even pick key men for certain key jobs. The new Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben Robertson is one of them.

2. The WOC's, or businessmen who serve "without compensation," though actually getting $15 a day, and who hold regular civil-service type jobs inside the Commerce Department while drawing salaries from their own companies.

One of these was Leonard E. Pasek, who, while drawing a salary from the Kimberley-Clark Paper Company, was caught sneaking out information to his employer not only about the government but about his rival, the Scott Paper Company.

Others who serve in these regular jobs are the employes of Reynolds Metals, Kaiser Aluminum, and Alcoa, who, being paid by their own companies, have given advice to the government that American industry needs no more aluminum production — at a time when some small fabricators have had to close down for lack of aluminum. Obviously this is exactly the same conflict of interest which caused Talbott to be ousted from the Air Force.

The Blue Chips

The other group of Weeks' businessmen, the Business Advisory Council, includes: Crawford Greenwalt, president of E. I. Du Pont, which in turn controls the company affiliated with three Eisenhower cabinet members — General Motors; John Biggers, chairman of Libby-Owens; Harold Boeschenstein, chairman, Owens-Corning Fibre Glass, James Black, president, Pacific Gas and Electric; John Collyer, chairman, B. F. Goodrich; Ralph Cordiner, president, General Electric; Donald David, dean of business administration, Harvard; T. V. Houser, chairman, Sears and Roebuck; Fred Lazarus Jr., president, Federated Department Stores, Cincinnati; George Love, president, Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal; J. P. Spang Jr., president, Gillette Co., Boston; John C. Virden, chairman, John C. Virden Co., Cleveland; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman-Sachs, giant investment firm who helped Ike pick his cabinet; and Eugene Holman, chairman, Standard Oil of New Jersey.

There's nothing wrong with having those men serve as advisers to the Commerce Department. It's an excellent idea and has been followed from the days when Averell Harriman, head of the Union Pacific, now governor of New York, and Ed Stettinius, head of U.S. Steel, later secretary of state, were advisers to the Commerce Department in Roosevelt's day.

The only issue at stake is whether their operations should not be subject to the same scrutiny by Congress as other agencies of government or other groups of advisers.

Sinny Says No

This is where the anguished Sinny Weeks bangs his fists and says no.

It so happens that John G. Ball, former paid lobbyist for Youngstown Sheet and Tube, for General Electric and for the National Association of Electric Companies, is paid by the Business Advisory Council to act for them in Washington. He has offices in the Commerce Department and acts for and with the Commerce Department. He also acts as adviser to Otto Seyforth, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Obviously Congress has a right to know where his duties for big business end and his work for or influence on the U. S. Government begins.

It also happens that James Black, head of Pacific Gas and Electric, an adviser to Weeks, has secured some highly unusual concessions from the Eisenhower administration, as will be shown in a later column.

It also happens that John Collyer of B. F. Goodrich has received some highly lucrative synthetic rubber factories at bargain prices from the government.

These might or might not mean a "conflict of interest." The Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives wants to know. However, Sinny Weeks even refused to have members of the Advisory Council or his "without compensation" men interviewed by committee attorneys. And Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia has vigorously supported him.

Maybe Harold Talbott wasn't joking about his tip after all.

Political Campaign Contributions Up For Test

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — Big business has every now and then reason to welcome the advent of big unionism on the American scene. There may even be rejoicing if big unionism prevails on the Supreme Court of the United States to rule that unions can spend any amounts they please in political campaigns.

Time was when only the corporations were forbidden by the federal corrupt Practices Act to make any contributions, loans, or gifts to any political campaign involving federal offices. But in the Taft-Hartley Act passed in 1947, an amendment to the federal Corrupt Practices Act forbade labor unions, too, from making such contributions.

Now the CIO is testing the issue and claims that any such restriction is an interference with the right of free speech as guaranteed by the Constitution. But, though it may be distasteful to the unions, the truth is the Constitution protects free speech for corporations as well. So, if the Supreme Court says the unions can contribute to political campaigns, corporations will be able to do the same thing. The 1956 campaign could yet come to be known as "the battle of billions."

Brownell Wanted Test

Attorney General Brownell requested the indictment of a CIO union—no individuals were named —just to find out what the rights of citizens are in respect to campaign contributions. Strange as it may seem, the constitutional issue has never been passed upon squarely by the Supreme Court. As usual, some cases have been decided that skirted around the ends of the question but a full-fledged test has never resulted.

The Department of Justice in prosecuting the case will have to take the position that neither unions nor corporations should be allowed to finance political campaigns and that Congress was right in imposing restrictions of this kind. The question will not turn so much on the rights of free speech but on the right to assure free elections.

The history of the cases under the corrupt practices law shows that constitutional rights are not unlimited or without qualifications. Thus, campaign expenditures themselves have been limited in amount by law. Congress has from time to time felt it had the right to say what is or is not an excessive expenditure. The theory has been that candidates without funds and without the backing of powerful labor unions or rich corporations shall not be deprived of an opportunity to run for federal office.

Right Is Limited

The Bill of Rights in the Constitution has never been interpreted by the Supreme Court as permitting unlimited liberty or license. Thus a citizen has the right of free speech, but the Supreme Court has said this doesn't give him the right "to cry fire in a crowded theater."

Newspapers, moreover, are protected under the First Amendment from any law "abridging the freedom of the press" but if, in their business or commercial pursuits, they violate the anti-trust laws, they cannot plead the First Amendment as a protection.

The issue that will come before the Supreme Court is whether a labor union may use the dues of its members for political purposes and thus become converted into a "political organization" for the period of a political campaign. If so, has Congress no right to pass laws governing the activities of "political organizations?" This is the question that will logically arise and will have to be answered.

If the freedom of speech clause is ruled to be paramount and both labor unions and corporations may spend millions upon millions of dollars in political campaigns, individual members of unions as well as individual stockholders of corporations could then file lawsuits under state laws to determine whether this is a proper use of union dues or stockholders' funds and company earnings.

If the courts say the sky is the limit and "free speech" is the only criterion, then the nation may see the beginning of the end of all the efforts by Congress in the last half century to exercise control over the methods used and the money spent in federal elections. Generally speaking, there would then be no barrier to the buying of elections by an individual or group of individuals with the most money.

Maybe when it is all over, the labor-union bosses will wish they hadn't presented the challenge in 1954 by expending money directly from their treasuries to aid congressional candidates in Michigan. In past years labor groups, known as "political action committees," were organized, but they solicited funds from individuals just as any political organization does. Workers could accept or reject such pleas. This time the CIO union admits it spent money directly from union coffers and defies the federal government to stop it and argues that any law restricting such spending is unconstitutional.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — The United States may relax travel restrictions on Soviet citizens here if the USSR follows through with its new friendship policy and does the same for Americans in Russia.

At present, 27 per cent of America's land area is off limits to Russians — a result of what the State Department calls "security and reciprocity."

At least 30 per cent of the Soviet Union's land area is barred to traveling Americans, and the Kremlin will have to make more of this accessible before the United States makes sightseeing easier for Russians.

Of course, areas involving national security — such as atomic energy and military installations— would remain barred to foreigners in both countries.

The State Department at present is lenient to the extent that it will allow Soviet citizens into "closed" areas for legitimate reasons. An example was the Russian drama critic who was permitted to attend the American Shakespeare festival theater at Stratford, Conn.

A hint of further easing of restriction on both sides came in the treatment accorded Russian farm officials who toured the United States and American agriculturalists who visited Russia.

Another indication has been the greater readiness of the Russians to give visas to Americans. This is looked upon as a possible harbinger of increased East-West travel.

Curtain Up

If Washington needs another bit of evidence that the iron curtain is lifting, it came in the announcement that Rep Pat Hillings (R-California) would be allowed to visit both Russia and four satellite countries.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon pointed out that Hillings, who represents Nixon's home district, is one of the leading anti-Communist House members.

Hillings officially is investigating the refugee problem in Europe. Then he's going on to Moscow and has been cleared for Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania. All this against a background of outspoken criticism of Red subversion, at home and abroad, for which the congressman has been noted.

Happy's Victory

A. B. (Happy) Chandler's triumph in the Kentucky gubernatorial primary had far more than statewide significance. The Democratic party's national leadership was deeply involved.

Chandler's victory was a rebuff to acting Senate Democratic Leader Earle C. Clements and to Senator Alben W. Barkley, both of whom declared their opposition to his bid for the nomination.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn was in the picture, too. Rayburn, in the closing days of the congressional session, pushed for action on a bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal controls.

Clements didn't want the Senate to act on the bill. He feared it would precipitate a fight big enough to keep the Senate in session long beyond the adjournment deadline. Clements wanted Congress to quit so he could go home and campaign against Chandler.

But Rayburn was adamant, and some Democrats say he deliberately prolonged the session a few days just to put Clements on the spot.

The natural gas bill did not come up in the Senate but Clements was prevented from leaving Washington until it was too late for him to influence the Kentucky primary.

Rayburn's friends say the speaker harbors a hope for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1946. Political insiders believe he has picked up a powerful ally in Chandler.

Teddy Roosevelt Victim Of Many Ills And Falls

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Bronchial asthma made Teddy Roosevelt a weak and sickly child. His first attack came shortly after birth and on many occasions it was so hard to breathe when lying down, he could sleep only in his father's arms. In the 1860s no specific remedies like adrenalin or meticorten were available.

Growth and development are affected by bronchial asthma in childhood and Teddy was no exception. He was pale, thin, and small for his age, and had a sunken chest, knobby knees, and toothpick legs. His teeth were perfect but protruding; he had a speech defect and was extremely nearsighted. Yet, with all these infirmities, Roosevelt became President at age 42—the youngest our country ever has had.

T. R.'s medical history includes innumerable injuries. He took to the out of doors to build his health and was exposed to so many hazards it was difficult not to get hurt. Before going west he broke an arm while riding; and in his broncho busting days fractured an arm and shoulder. In 1900, while campaigning for the vice presidency in Colorado, he was struck by a piece of timber which left severe chest bruises.

Boxing was President Roosevelt's favorite exercise. On one occasion, his opponent hit him near the left eye. Within a few days he complained of seeing floating objects and an eye specialist found the cause to be retinal hemorrhage. Four years later the retina became detached and vision was lost in that eye.

In 1904 the Rough Rider again was thrown from a horse. He landed on his head and his face was so bruised and swollen he was unrecognizable and his physicians suspected a fractured skull.

His most publicized mishap occurred during his Bull Moose campaign tour in Milwaukee in 1912. A crank shot him in the chest wall but T. R. insisted upon keeping his engagement. When he took the speech from his pocket he saw that the bullet had passed through the heavy manuscript as well as his metal spectacle case, which spent some of its force.

He was taken to Chicago where four eminent surgeons took care of him. The bullet was never removed. It had missed his heart and lungs and he recovered without complications.

Teddy's last accident almost proved fatal. He went to South America to discover the "River of Doubt." When he attempted to shoot the rapids his canoe tipped, throwing him against the rocks, which cut a deep gash in his thigh. The wound became infected and abscesses formed in various parts of his body. His companions carried him in a litter until he recovered sufficiently to proceed under his own steam.

During the last few years of his life Roosevelt had various illnesses such as acute otitis media, inflammatory rheumatism, mastoid involvement, and erysipelas. He died in his sleep of coronary thrombosis at age 60.

Try And Stop Me!

One of the most talked-about events at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth was the arrival, from darkest Africa, of the amazonian Queen Salote of Tonga. She was almost seven feet tall and her perpetual grin delighted the English. She solidified her popularity when, during a sudden downpour during the procession, she was the only notable who refused to put up the top of her carriage. She was soaked to the skin in order to wave happily at the crowds.

At a fashionable dinner that night, everybody was talking about Queen Salote. "I wonder who that tiny man was at her side?" speculated one lady, Noel Coward, bored by the whole conversation, snapped, "That was her lunch."

The waiter, striving desperately for a big tip, assured his customer,

"Yes, indeedy, at Umberufen's Sea Food House, you often find a genuine pearl in our oyster stew."

"A likely story," sneered the customer, "I can't even find an oyster."

Russian People Take Cue From Leaders

At least until recently Russia's ordinary people —the great masses on which a Communist minority has kept a tight grip for almost 40 years—had observed well the lesson they had learned not to let their guard down with strangers, particularly foreigners.

But now, with an air of feeling he can take the cue from men currently at the top of the Soviet regime, Russia's man in the street seems to be showing those same peaceful hopes which are shared by his counterparts everywhere on this side of the iron curtain.

Unfortunately, however, the ordinary people are not the ones who determine what roads Russia will travel to her destiny.

American newsmen in sidewalk interviews in Moscow during the days since Geneva find the average Russian no longer fearful of seeming friendly. Their dispatches portray a public almost fervently hopeful of friendly understanding. Where once they would have shied away, they now appear eager to exchange views with foreigners.

They tell of their enthusiasm for the change in international relationships which they believe has occurred. One trio, including a man in a naval officer's uniform, urged a newsman to tell America that the people of Russia "want to live in peace."

While this new showing of friendliness by the Russian people is interesting, in no other country of the world does the government have to be concerned less about what its people want. The rulers of Russia have made abrupt changes in their course in the past. They will do so again when they decide the interests of communism will best be served by such action.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

What Is Banking?

John J. McCloy, chairman of the board of directors of the Chase-Manhattan Bank in New York, defined the nature of banking in a manner that indicates the degree to which this service industry has become socialized in this country. He said:

". . . it is relevant to note that in supporting their objective to foster the soundness and capability of banks, the supervisory authorities place certain definite limits on the competitive process. For example banking is not a business which anyone can enter who has the necessary capital and who desires to go into it. Indeed, existing banks are not even free to expand as they may desire. The supervisory authorities—the comptroller of the currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the FDIC, or the various state banking agencies — exercise control over entry into banking; they control the ability of existing banks to establish new branches; and their approval is usually required for any increase in capital stock. Today in New York City, for example, it is not possible for a bank to open new branches in many areas of the city. Frequently the supervisory authorities will not permit additional offices on the ground that there is already an established bank in the area and the opening of a new branch might lead to excessive competition. This same situation prevails in many other areas of the country as well. Hence one of the primary requisites for free competition—freedom of entry—is generally absent in banking . . ."

It was never intended, either by the Congress or by state legislative bodies, when bank legislation was passed, that competition should be eliminated from banking, just as when railroad legislation was passed, it was never intended to reduce the railroads to non-competitive operations strangled by the bureaucrats of the Interstate Commerce Commission. These are two examples of bureaucratic excesses which do not serve the people who are led falsely to believe that they are in some manner protected by officials.

Mr. McCloy says: ". . . banking is not a business which anyone can enter . . ." which is only too true. But who are the political appointees who determine who is to be permitted to enter the banking business? It would be interesting if a congressional committee would gather data on how many employes of the Federal Reserve Board or the comptroller of the currency, who looks after banks in the federal system, or the state banking boards and control agencies have found employment with banks while they were working for government or immediately after they were fired or retired. Ex-Secretary Harold Talbott Gets Revenge On Commerce Secretary

WASHINGTON — Repercussions of Harold Talbott's exit as Air Force secretary are still felt in the capital. The man who's feeling them most is Sinclair Weeks, the secretary of commerce.

"Sinny," as he's called in high GOP circles, is literally palpitating over an indirect "tip" from Talbott. Here is what happened.

When he left Washington, the ousted Air Force secretary was howling mad over failure of his fellow cabinet officers to defend him on the "conflict of interest" charge. So, shortly after resigning, Talbott entertained a group of newsmen at dinner, and taking one of them aside, dropped a confidential "tip" that the next congressional target over "conflict of interest" would be Sinclair Weeks.

Next morning the newsman called at the Commerce Department and asked for comment on Talbott's prediction. Weeks was immediately informed, and, taking it at face value, he called a hurry-up meeting at the White House.

Alarmed presidential aides agreed that the matter was serious. So, acting on the theory that a good offense is the best defense, they advised Weeks to strike out at Congress. The result was Weeks' press conference of August 11, in which he charged that the Democrats were staging a massive attack on free enterprise.

"I don't think the American people want anyone to play politics with defense or to play politics with prosperity," Weeks said in a carefully prepared statement.

But he declined to say, when questioned, just who was playing politics, and seemed quite vague on other matters.

This shotgun statement only had the effect of further arousing Congressman Manny Celler, the Brooklyn boy who proceeded to tangle more vigorously with the blue-blood cabinet member from Boston.

It's quite possible that Harold Talbott merely meant to have a good laugh at the administration which fired him, but anyway the result of his "tip" has been three refusals by Sinny Weeks to testify before Manny Celler's committee, and a great deal more scrutiny of the blue-chip business advisers who've been serving Weeks with very possible "conflict of interest."

Week's Roll Call

There are two categories of businessmen Sinny Weeks is worried about having investigated. They are:

1. The Business Advisory Council, which includes some of the biggest men on Wall Street, who not only advise Weeks on Eisenhower economic policy but even pick key men for certain key jobs. The new Deputy Secretary of Defense Reuben Robertson is one of them.

2. The WOC's, or businessmen who serve "without compensation," though actually getting $15 a day, and who hold regular civil-service type jobs inside the Commerce Department while drawing salaries from their own companies.

One of these was Leonard E. Pasek, who, while drawing a salary from the Kimberley-Clark Paper Company, was caught sneaking out information to his employer not only about the government but about his rival, the Scott Paper Company.

Others who serve in these regular jobs are the employes of Reynolds Metals, Kaiser Aluminum, and Alcoa, who, being paid by their own companies, have given advice to the government that American industry needs no more aluminum production — at a time when some small fabricators have had to close down for lack of aluminum. Obviously this is exactly the same conflict of interest which caused Talbott to be ousted from the Air Force.

The Blue Chips

The other group of Weeks' businessmen, the Business Advisory Council, includes: Crawford Greenwalt, president of E. I. Du Pont, which in turn controls the company affiliated with three Eisenhower cabinet members — General Motors; John Biggers, chairman of Libby-Owens; Harold Boeschenstein, chairman, Owens-Corning Fibre Glass, James Black, president, Pacific Gas and Electric; John Collyer, chairman, B. F. Goodrich; Ralph Cordiner, president, General Electric; Donald David, dean of business administration, Harvard; T. V. Houser, chairman, Sears and Roebuck; Fred Lazarus Jr., president, Federated Department Stores, Cincinnati; George Love, president, Pittsburgh Consolidated Coal; J. P. Spang Jr., president, Gillette Co., Boston; John C. Virden, chairman, John C. Virden Co., Cleveland; Sidney Weinberg, head of Goldman-Sachs, giant investment firm who helped Ike pick his cabinet; and Eugene Holman, chairman, Standard Oil of New Jersey.

There's nothing wrong with having those men serve as advisers to the Commerce Department. It's an excellent idea and has been followed from the days when Averell Harriman, head of the Union Pacific, now governor of New York, and Ed Stettinius, head of U.S. Steel, later secretary of state, were advisers to the Commerce Department in Roosevelt's day.

The only issue at stake is whether their operations should not be subject to the same scrutiny by Congress as other agencies of government or other groups of advisers.

Sinny Says No

This is where the anguished Sinny Weeks bangs his fists and says no.

It so happens that John G. Ball, former paid lobbyist for Youngstown Sheet and Tube, for General Electric and for the National Association of Electric Companies, is paid by the Business Advisory Council to act for them in Washington. He has offices in the Commerce Department and acts for and with the Commerce Department. He also acts as adviser to Otto Seyforth, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Obviously Congress has a right to know where his duties for big business end and his work for or influence on the U. S. Government begins.

It also happens that James Black, head of Pacific Gas and Electric, an adviser to Weeks, has secured some highly unusual concessions from the Eisenhower administration, as will be shown in a later column.

It also happens that John Collyer of B. F. Goodrich has received some highly lucrative synthetic rubber factories at bargain prices from the government.

These might or might not mean a "conflict of interest." The Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives wants to know. However, Sinny Weeks even refused to have members of the Advisory Council or his "without compensation" men interviewed by committee attorneys. And Congressman Hugh Scott of Philadelphia has vigorously supported him.

Maybe Harold Talbott wasn't joking about his tip after all.

Inside Washington

By Central Press

WASHINGTON — The United States may relax travel restrictions on Soviet citizens here if the USSR follows through with its new friendship policy and does the same for Americans in Russia.

At present, 27 per cent of America's land area is off limits to Russians — a result of what the State Department calls "security and reciprocity."

At least 30 per cent of the Soviet Union's land area is barred to traveling Americans, and the Kremlin will have to make more of this accessible before the United States makes sightseeing easier for Russians.

Of course, areas involving national security — such as atomic energy and military installations— would remain barred to foreigners in both countries.

The State Department at present is lenient to the extent that it will allow Soviet citizens into "closed" areas for legitimate reasons. An example was the Russian drama critic who was permitted to attend the American Shakespeare festival theater at Stratford, Conn.

A hint of further easing of restriction on both sides came in the treatment accorded Russian farm officials who toured the United States and American agriculturalists who visited Russia.

Another indication has been the greater readiness of the Russians to give visas to Americans. This is looked upon as a possible harbinger of increased East-West travel.

Curtain Up

If Washington needs another bit of evidence that the iron curtain is lifting, it came in the announcement that Rep Pat Hillings (R-California) would be allowed to visit both Russia and four satellite countries.

Vice President Richard M. Nixon pointed out that Hillings, who represents Nixon's home district, is one of the leading anti-Communist House members.

Hillings officially is investigating the refugee problem in Europe. Then he's going on to Moscow and has been cleared for Poland, Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Romania. All this against a background of outspoken criticism of Red subversion, at home and abroad, for which the congressman has been noted.

Happy's Victory

A. B. (Happy) Chandler's triumph in the Kentucky gubernatorial primary had far more than statewide significance. The Democratic party's national leadership was deeply involved.

Chandler's victory was a rebuff to acting Senate Democratic Leader Earle C. Clements and to Senator Alben W. Barkley, both of whom declared their opposition to his bid for the nomination.

House Speaker Sam Rayburn was in the picture, too. Rayburn, in the closing days of the congressional session, pushed for action on a bill to exempt natural gas producers from federal controls.

Clements didn't want the Senate to act on the bill. He feared it would precipitate a fight big enough to keep the Senate in session long beyond the adjournment deadline. Clements wanted Congress to quit so he could go home and campaign against Chandler.

But Rayburn was adamant, and some Democrats say he deliberately prolonged the session a few days just to put Clements on the spot.

The natural gas bill did not come up in the Senate but Clements was prevented from leaving Washington until it was too late for him to influence the Kentucky primary.

Rayburn's friends say the speaker harbors a hope for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1946. Political insiders believe he has picked up a powerful ally in Chandler.

Teddy Roosevelt Victim Of Many Ills And Falls

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Deilen

Bronchial asthma made Teddy Roosevelt a weak and sickly child. His first attack came shortly after birth and on many occasions it was so hard to breathe when lying down, he could sleep only in his father's arms. In the 1860s no specific remedies like adrenalin or meticorten were available.

Growth and development are affected by bronchial asthma in childhood and Teddy was no exception. He was pale, thin, and small for his age, and had a sunken chest, knobby knees, and toothpick legs. His teeth were perfect but protruding; he had a speech defect and was extremely nearsighted. Yet, with all these infirmities, Roosevelt became President at age 42—the youngest our country ever has had.

T. R.'s medical history includes innumerable injuries. He took to the out of doors to build his health and was exposed to so many hazards it was difficult not to get hurt. Before going west he broke an arm while riding; and in his broncho busting days fractured an arm and shoulder. In 1900, while campaigning for the vice presidency in Colorado, he was struck by a piece of timber which left severe chest bruises.

Boxing was President Roosevelt's favorite exercise. On one occasion, his opponent hit him near the left eye. Within a few days he complained of seeing floating objects and an eye specialist found the cause to be retinal hemorrhage. Four years later the retina became detached and vision was lost in that eye.

In 1904 the Rough Rider again was thrown from a horse. He landed on his head and his face was so bruised and swollen he was unrecognizable and his physicians suspected a fractured skull.

His most publicized mishap occurred during his Bull Moose campaign tour in Milwaukee in 1912. A crank shot him in the chest wall but T. R. insisted upon keeping his engagement. When he took the speech from his pocket he saw that the bullet had passed through the heavy manuscript as well as his metal spectacle case, which spent some of its force.

He was taken to Chicago where four eminent surgeons took care of him. The bullet was never removed. It had missed his heart and lungs and he recovered without complications.

Teddy's last accident almost proved fatal. He went to South America to discover the "River of Doubt." When he attempted to shoot the rapids his canoe tipped, throwing him against the rocks, which cut a deep gash in his thigh. The wound became infected and abscesses formed in various parts of his body. His companions carried him in a litter until he recovered sufficiently to proceed under his own steam.

During the last few years of his life Roosevelt had various illnesses such as acute otitis media, inflammatory rheumatism, mastoid involvement, and erysipelas. He died in his sleep of coronary thrombosis at age 60.

TOMORROW: Infant feeding has been simplified.

GALL BLADDER BOUT

Mrs. H. writes: How is an attack of gall bladder treated?

REPLY

The infection is controlled with an antibiotic; a pain killing drug is used to relieve distress; and fat is excluded from the diet to give the organ a rest. Some surgeons advise immediate operation where as others prefer to wait until inflammation subsides.

ADAM'S APPLE

G. Z. writes: Is the Adam's apple the thyroid?

REPLY

No. It is a cartilage which is part of the voice box and lies just above the thyroid gland.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Deilen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me!

By Bennett Cerf

One of the most talked-about events at the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth was the arrival, from darkest Africa, of the amazonian Queen Salote of Tonga. She was almost seven feet tall and her perpetual grin delighted the English. She solidified her popularity when, during a sudden downpour during the procession, she was the only notable who refused to put up the top of her carriage. She was soaked to the skin in order to wave happily at the crowds.

At a fashionable dinner that night, everybody was talking about Queen Salote. "I wonder who that tiny man was at her side?" speculated one lady, Noel Coward, bored by the whole conversation, snapped, "That was her lunch."

The waiter, striving desperately for a big tip, assured his customer,

"Yes, indeedy, at Umberufen's Sea Food House, you often find a genuine pearl in our oyster stew."

Meter Receipts Down

KEYSER—City Clerk Carl F. Theis, Jr., announced yesterday that parking meter receipts for the week ending last Saturday, were $240.81, as compared with the previous week of $294.56. On last Saturday parking was prevented in much of the area from South Main Street for its full length to Armstrong Street, and along Armstrong, because of the big Firemen's convention parade, which probably cut down the amount of receipts for the past week.

Officials Seek Cleaning Bids On Town Sewer

Located Near Bruce High School

WESTERNPORT—Prices will be secured for cleaning out a sewer in the vicinity of the present Bruce High School where there are rocks lodged into it.

Mayor Okey E. Michael called attention to this condition at a recent meeting of the Town Commissioners.

The mayor stated that the town does not have the proper equipment to remove the debris in the sewer and it was ordered that the city clerk write to the Ace Pipe Cleaning Company for a quotation to do the work.

It was reported by the city clerk that quotations received for the pipe for a new sewer for approximately 1,700 feet would cost about $1,200. Water Commissioner, Harry Richards, estimated previously the entire cost for the project would be about $25,000.

The meeting was held in the mayor's store due to remodeling work being underway in the clerk's office.

The meeting today will begin at 7 p. m. when John P. Rogers, Baltimore, who recently audited the town's books will present his report.

Officer Appeals Suspension

Former Patrolman Albert Klink, member of the Frostburg Police Department since August 16, 1951, who was suspended last Thursday for "conduct detrimental to the force," yesterday filed notice of an appeal with the Civil Service Commission.

Chief Lloyd Turley of Frostburg said Klink displayed a letter indicating his intentions of filing an appeal.

Klink was involved in an auto accident in which a mother and her two children were hurt, one seriously, August 13 at Deal, Pa.

The trio, Mrs. Mary Blubaugh, 26, of Midland, Russell Blubaugh, 2, and Frances Blubaugh, 8, was riding with Klink when his car plunged 40 feet off the Western Maryland Railway bridge and landed on its top.

Authorities said the three Blubaughs were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital. Klink suffered minor injuries.

Action against Klink was taken following the mishap.

"This agreement, if ratified on a national basis by producers owning two-thirds or more of the sheep, represented in the referendum, will authorize a deduction of one cent per pound on wool and five per hundredweight on lambs when incentive payments are made to farmers for 1955 and subsequent years.

In Mineral County 101 ballots were counted. Twenty-two votes favoring the agreement represented 1,061 sheep. Seventy-nine votes against the agreement represented 2,690 sheep.

Street Celebration Will Get Underway

LONACONING — A parade will start off the three-night Lonaconing street celebration on Thursday at 7:30 p. m.

Forming at 7 o'clock at East End, the line of march will be East Main, Main, Union, Jackson, Hanekamp, Allegany, Dudley, Front, Jackson, Union, returning to Main Street and disband at the Good Will Volunteer fire hall.

Prizes will be awarded to the winning band and fire company. Tri-state bands and fire companies which have indicated they will participate are Oakland Mountain City Band, Grantsville Fire Department; Barton Hose Company No. 1; Cresaptown Fire Department, Midland Fire Department.

Mt. Savage Fire Department, Bowman's Addition Fire Department; Clarysville Volunteer Fire Company, Keyser Volunteer fire department; Shaft Volunteer Fire Company; Potomac Company No. 2, Westernport; Corriganville Fire company; Lonaconing City band.

Members of Good Will Volunteer Fire Company No. 1 of Lonaconing will parade in their new uniforms.

There will be children's rides on Douglas Avenue at the street celebration on Thursday, Friday and Saturday evenings. Jack Shaw will have his ferris wheel and there will be ponies for riding.

Saturday at 7:30 p. m. the Lonaconing City Band will play a concert at Main Street and Douglas Avenue to open the celebration.

John Eichhorn, president of Good Will Volunteer Fire Company, said the company will meet today at 6 p. m. at the engine house, prior to the business meeting, to prepare for the street stands.

Price Duckworth is chairman of the 12-man committee in charge of the Lonaconing firemen's event.

Meter Receipts Down

KEYSER—City Clerk Carl F. Theis, Jr., announced yesterday that parking meter receipts for the week ending last Saturday, were $240.81, as compared with the previous week of $294.56. On fast Saturday parking was prevented in much of the area from South Main Street for its full length to Armstrong Street, and along Armstrong, because of the big Firemen's convention parade, which probably cut down the amount of receipts for the past week.

Officials Seek Cleaning Bids On Town Sewer

Located Near Bruce High School

WESTERNPORT—Prices will be secured for cleaning out a sewer in the vicinity of the present Bruce High School where there are rocks lodged into it.

Mayor Okey E. Michael called attention to this condition at a recent meeting of the Town Commissioners.

The mayor stated that the town does not have the proper equipment to remove the debris in the sewer and it was ordered that the city clerk write to the Ace Pipe Cleaning Company for a quotation to do the work.

It was reported by the city clerk that quotations received for the pipe for a new sewer for approximately 1,700 feet would cost about $1,200. Water Commissioner, Harry Richards, estimated previously the entire cost for the project would be about $25,000.

The meeting was held in the mayor's store due to remodeling work being underway in the clerk's office.

The meeting today will begin at 7 p. m. when John P. Rogers, Baltimore, who recently audited the town's books will present his report.

Officer Appeals Suspension

Former Patrolman Albert Klink, member of the Frostburg Police Department since August 16, 1951, who was suspended last Thursday for "conduct detrimental to the force," yesterday filed notice of an appeal with the Civil Service Commission.

Chief Lloyd Turley of Frostburg said Klink displayed a letter indicating his intentions of filing an appeal.

Klink was involved in an auto accident in which a mother and her two children were hurt, one seriously, August 13 at Deal, Pa.

The trio, Mrs. Mary Blubaugh, 26, of Midland, Russell Blubaugh, 2, and Frances Blubaugh, 8, was riding with Klink when his car plunged 40 feet off the Western Maryland Railway bridge and landed on its top.

Authorities said the three Blubaughs were admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital. Klink suffered minor injuries.

Action against Klink was taken following the mishap.

Mineral County Wool Growers Oppose Fund

KEYSER — James E. Taylor, chairman of the Mineral County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, advises that a majority of the Mineral County sheep growers who cast ballots in the sheep and wool referendum voted against the proposed agreement between Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson, and the newly organized American Sheep Breeders Council.

This agreement, if ratified on a national basis by producers owning two-thirds or more of the sheep, represented in the referendum, will authorize a deduction of one cent per pound on wool and five per hundredweight on lambs when incentive payments are made to farmers for 1955 and subsequent years.

In Mineral County 101 ballots were counted. Twenty-two votes favoring the agreement represented 1,061 sheep. Seventy-nine votes against the agreement represented 2,690 sheep.

Keyser Patrolman Hurt In Accident

KEYSER—City Patrolman Wilford Smith, Chestnut Street, suffered chest injuries about 5:30 a. m. yesterday when the patrol car he was driving struck a pole at South Mineral and State Streets.

The accident is said to have been due to the car wheels locking as he made the turn into the side street.

He was assisted to the hospital where it was discovered he had chest injuries including injuries to cartilages and his chest was taped. Damages to the car are estimated at approximately $300.

Forestry Exhibit At Fair

Again this year at the Cumberland Fair the State Department of Forests and Parks has arranged an exhibit with a two-fold purpose. One is to stress the types of facilities that the department has available for vacationists in the State of Maryland. The other is a warning that careless handling of matches will lead to forest fires which in turn will destroy much of the beauty of nature. Senior Forest Supervisor Brooke Bodkin is shown arranging the exhibit, which is situated close to the paddock at Fairgo.

Registration Is Up

Last summer there were 2,409 children who registered as regular patrons of the 16 playgrounds.

This summer, according to recreation department figures kept by Mrs. Eva Hogan, playground supervisor, there was an increase in registrants to 2,964, a gain of 555.

The biggest increase was noted at Gephart Playground where 123 additional children participated in the activities.

Mrs. Hogan pointed out there were more transient users—that is, those who did not register but used the playlots.

She commented that the program sponsored by the recreation department is for children between the ages of six and 18 years.

But the interest in the four to six age group appeared high this year and it is possible that a program may be worked out for these children next summer, she added.

Scores Sweep

The Guernsey herd of R. A. McCauley and sons of Hagerstown, scored a sweep of events in this breed of dairy cattle by producing the grand champion bull, junior and senior champion bulls, grand champion cow and junior champion heifer. H. W. McElwee, also of Hagerstown, had the best bull calf and placed second in the judging of the other events. J. Herbert Snyder of Union Bridge, Carroll County, was the judge for the Guernsey cattle.

A. Doty Remsburg of Jefferson, in Frederick County, showed the grand champion and senior champion bull in the Holstein dairy breed while Harry O. Harbaugh had the junior champion bull in this breed. Remsburg also took top honors in the female classification of the Holsteins with junior and grand champion cows. Harbaugh's entry took the senior champion cow top ribbon. Dietrich was the judge of the Holstein breed. Harbaugh had taken grand champion cow for the past three years prior to yesterday's judging when Remsburg's Har-land Manor Posch Sparkee broke the trend.

Samuel J. Diehl, RFD 4, Bedford, Pa., had most of the championship stock in the Ayrshire dairy breed judging including the junior, senior and grand champion cow and the junior champion bull. W. I. Shank, Hagerstown, produced the senior and grand champion bull. Robert Moore of Mt. Savage, with five Ayrshires, placed well in the judging.

The Ayrshire judging was done by Walter J. Hahn of Frederick.

Joseph M. Steger, county agent, is superintendent of the cattle show, assisted by Eugene Hopkins.

Remsburg also took top honors in the female classification of the Holsteins with junior and grand champion cows. Harbaugh's entry took the senior champion cow top ribbon. Dietrich was the judge of the Holstein breed. Harbaugh had taken grand champion cow for the past three years prior to yesterday's judging when Remsburg's Har-land Manor Posch Sparkee broke the trend.

Samuel J. Diehl, RFD 4, Bedford, Pa., had most of the championship stock in the Ayrshire dairy breed judging including the junior, senior and grand champion cow and the junior champion bull. W. I. Shank, Hagerstown, produced the senior and grand champion bull. Robert Moore of Mt. Savage, with five Ayrshires, placed well in the judging.

The Ayrshire judging was done by Walter J. Hahn of Frederick.

Power Failure Halts Hot Stove Playoff

A power failure halted the second game of the Hot Stove League playoff series between B'nai B'rith and the Optimists last night at Penn Avenue Field with the former team leading by the score of 1-0 in the second inning.

According to official rules of baseball (4.12) covering suspended games due to light failure, a league may establish rules providing for completion at a future date of games terminated before nine innings have been completed. The rule specifically states that a suspended game shall be resumed at the point of interruption of the original game and as nearly as possible with the same personnel and batting order of the original game.

Bob Pence, City Recreation Director, announced last night that the teams will clash again Friday night at 8:15 at Penn Avenue Field. If the Optimists wins to square up the series, the third and deciding game will be staged Saturday afternoon at Penn Avenue Field.

Power Failure Halts Hot Stove Playoff

A power failure halted the second game of the Hot Stove League playoff series between B'nai B'rith and the Optimists last night at Penn Avenue Field with the former team leading by the score of 1-0 in the second inning.

The rule specifically states that a suspended game shall be resumed at the point of interruption of the original game and as nearly as possible with the same personnel and batting order of the original game.

Bob Pence, City Recreation Director, announced last night that the teams will clash again Friday night at 8:15 at Penn Avenue Field. If the Optimists wins to square up the series, the third and deciding game will be staged Saturday afternoon at Penn Avenue Field.

Mary Ann Downey Tops Barbara Romack By 1-Up Margin

MARY ANN MISSES 12-FOOT PUTT—Miss Mary Ann Downey, of Baltimore, throws her putter out, as a 12-foot putt missed the cup by inches in the national amateur golf tourney yesterday at Charlotte, N. C. Miss Downey eliminated Barbara Romack, defending champion, by a 1-up margin in a second round match. Other Marylanders, Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore and Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Cumberland, were defeated yesterday. Miss Downey is well known here, having won the Cumberland Country Club's Invitation Tournament three years in a row to retire the Old Export Bowl.

Baltimore Ace Beats Champ At Charlotte

Mrs. Royce Hodges And Mrs. Glick Lose In National Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Mary Ann Downey, a dogged precision player from Baltimore, dropped defending champion Barbara Romack out of the Women's National Amateur Golf Championship by a 1-up margin today and kept alive the tradition that champions don't repeat in this tournament.

Not since Betty Jameson won in 1939 and 1940 has a women's champion been able to retain her title.

The medal scores of 39-41—80 for Miss Downey and 38-43—81 for Miss Romack showed the kind of golf they played over the trying 6,413-yard par 74 Myers Park course.

Dorothy Kirby Loses

The defeat of the defending champion was not entirely unexpected but it capped a second round in which most of the favorites came through with surprising ease. One other ex-champion, Atlanta's Dorothy Kirby, was eliminated, but two more came through with easy victories, as did most of the top-rank tournament players.

Miss Kirby, 1951 winner, was dropped 2 and 1 by Greta Leone of Chicago. Ex-champions Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Mrs. Mark A. Porter of Philadelphia had no trouble. Miss Lenczyk whipped Mrs. Veleair Smith of Huntington, W. Va., 8 and 6, and Mrs. Porter defeated Mrs. Louise K. Faquin of Salisbury, N. C., 4 and 3.

Other winners—most of them by comfortable margins — included Polly Riley of Fort Worth, 1953 runner-up; and former Curtis Cup players Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Elizabeth Price of England; Southern champion Mrs. Scott Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Lesser Scores On 19th

Another Curtis Cup player, tall Pat Lesser of Seattle, had to go to the 19th hole to win after being two down to Mrs. Marge Mason of Ridgewood, N. J., with two to go. Pat birdied the 18th to save the match then won the 19th with another birdie.

Jackie Yates of Honolulu, bowed out on the 19th hole before Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., who was runnerup for the Southern Women's title last spring.

Other results today included:

Mrs. Scott Probasco Jr., Chattanooga, Tenn., defeated Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 7 and 6.

Elizabeth Price, England, defeated Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore, 2 up.

Mrs. Margaret Allen, Arlington, Va., defeated Marjorie Burns, Greensboro, N. C., 7 and 5.

Mrs. Harrison Flippin, Ardmore, Pa., defeated Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Cumberland, Md., 5 and 3.

Mrs. H. S. Covington, Orangeburg, S. C., defeated Mrs. John Barry, Norbeck, Md., 7 and 5.

Mary Ann Downey Tops Barbara Romack By 1-Up Margin

MARY ANN MISSES 12-FOOT PUTT—Miss Mary Ann Downey, of Baltimore, throws her putter out, as a 12-foot putt missed the cup by inches in the national amateur golf tourney yesterday at Charlotte, N. C. Miss Downey eliminated Barbara Romack, defending champion, by a 1-up margin in a second round match. Other Marylanders, Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore and Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Cumberland, were defeated yesterday. Miss Downey is well known here, having won the Cumberland Country Club's Invitation Tournament three years in a row to retire the Old Export Bowl.

Baltimore Ace Beats Champ At Charlotte

Mrs. Royce Hodges And Mrs. Glick Lose In National Tourney

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Aug. 23 (AP)—Mary Ann Downey, a dogged precision player from Baltimore, dropped defending champion Barbara Romack out of the Women's National Amateur Golf Championship by a 1-up margin today and kept alive the tradition that champions don't repeat in this tournament.

Not since Betty Jameson won in 1939 and 1940 has a women's champion been able to retain her title.

The medal scores of 39-41—80 for Miss Downey and 38-43—81 for Miss Romack showed the kind of golf they played over the trying 6,413-yard par 74 Myers Park course.

Dorothy Kirby Loses

The defeat of the defending champion was not entirely unexpected but it capped a second round in which most of the favorites came through with surprising ease. One other ex-champion, Atlanta's Dorothy Kirby, was eliminated, but two more came through with easy victories, as did most of the top-rank tournament players.

Miss Kirby, 1951 winner, was dropped 2 and 1 by Greta Leone of Chicago. Ex-champions Grace Lenczyk of Newington, Conn., and Mrs. Mark A. Porter of Philadelphia had no trouble. Miss Lenczyk whipped Mrs. Veleair Smith of Huntington, W. Va., 8 and 6, and Mrs. Porter defeated Mrs. Louise K. Faquin of Salisbury, N. C., 4 and 3.

Other winners—most of them by comfortable margins — included Polly Riley of Fort Worth, 1953 runner-up; and former Curtis Cup players Marjorie Lindsay of Decatur, Ill., and Elizabeth Price of England; Southern champion Mrs. Scott Probasco of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Lesser Scores On 19th

Another Curtis Cup player, tall Pat Lesser of Seattle, had to go to the 19th hole to win after being two down to Mrs. Marge Mason of Ridgewood, N. J., with two to go. Pat birdied the 18th to save the match then won the 19th with another birdie.

Jackie Yates of Honolulu, bowed out on the 19th hole before Mary Pat Janssen of Charlottesville, Va., who was runnerup for the Southern Women's title last spring.

Other results today included:

Mrs. Scott Probasco Jr., Chattanooga, Tenn., defeated Sally Carroll, Wheeling, W. Va., 7 and 6.

Elizabeth Price, England, defeated Mrs. Maurice Glick, Baltimore, 2 up.

Mrs. Margaret Allen, Arlington, Va., defeated Marjorie Burns, Greensboro, N. C., 7 and 5.

Mrs. Harrison Flippin, Ardmore, Pa., defeated Mrs. W. Royce Hodges, Cumberland, Md., 5 and 3.

Mrs. H. S. Covington, Orangeburg, S. C., defeated Mrs. John Barry, Norbeck, Md., 7 and 5.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 23 (INS)—I am happy to be back and a happy hello to all of you. Now I will give you the news that James Mason has signed a new contract with Twentieth Century-Fox and will be starred in a re-make of "Jane Eyre" playing Rochester.

When I checked with Darryl Zanuck he said, "Yes, it is true we have signed James Mason on a three way deal to produce, write and direct. We will put Joan Collins in the role Joan Fontaine played in our 1944 picture. Remember, Orson Welles played Dochester.

What nostalgia "Jane Eyre" brings. The famous Emily Bronte classic was the first book I ever owned and I must have read it a dozen times.

I was very sorry when I heard that Barbara Stanwyck's doctor had said she must rest and so she bowed out of a picture commitment.

Thank goodness she is well enough now to report to Papa Yates at Republic Studio on September 6 for Zane Grey's "The Maverick Queen." Barbara and her co-stars, Barry Sullivan and Scott Brady, take off for Durango, Colorado, on location, accompanied by Joe Kane, the director and associate producer.

I must say Barbara has chosen an interesting role in that of Kit Banton, who is the queen bee of a gang of outlaws who call themselves "The Wild Bunch." Their nefarious dealings take place right after the Jesse James era, with Barry Sullivan playing a Pinkerton detective, who poses as one of the gang.

A big bow to Dorothy Manners, my close friend and assistant of 20 years, for so admirably holding down the fort in my absence. She wrote, as always, a swell, newsy column.

Snaps:

Tempes Fugits! Alan Reed, Jr., who grew up as my next door neighbor, escorted Anna Maria Alberghetti to a UCLA play—two nice kids.

All our faces will be red if Grace Kelly marries Jean Pierre Aumont. Originally, we all thought his romancing of her in Paris some time ago was just a publicity stunt, but he was devotion itself to the beautiful Grace at Jules Stein's brunch honoring conductor-composer Leonard Bernstein. Also at the brunch were Leslie Caron, Wynn Rocamora, Jack Benny, the Johnny Greens, Merle Oberon, Walt Disney and others.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

How To Cast An Animal

KENYA, British East Africa. If the actors aren't careful, the animals are going to run off with all their jobs. As Walt Disney's nature movies have proved, they are very great hams and the public can hardly get enough of them. Out here where Marlin Perkins and a retinue of cameramen and technicians are shooting a series of wild animal pictures for forthcoming "Zoo Parade" programs, we have discovered the animals can be as temperamental as Ava Gardner when you try to photograph them.

They haven't the sense yet to demand money for their services but I expect ultimately they will when a Hollywood agent discovers what a gold mine he is neglecting. In that regard they have fallen well behind the Masei tribesmen who, when you point a camera at them, toss their orange nighties over their heads, leaving exposed only what you can't conceivably photograph. They won't emerge until you cross their palms with small coins. The day will come—you mark my words—when the elephants will retreat into deepest shade until you throw some silver out on the plains to lure them out where you take pictures.

It's a maddening business, taking pictures of wild animals, but it is endlessly fascinating. One thing that struck me almost immediately is how perfectly typecast animals are. The nobility and grandeur of the lion, the ponderous dignity of the elephant, the savage irascibility of the rhino—in every case I can think of, the appearance of the animals almost exactly matches their characters. Those are rather obvious examples but it seems to follow right through the animal kingdom. The other day we were watching a score of vultures tear into the carcass of an elephant. Their table manners are not pretty and neither are their scavenging habits and neither are their looks. Into this mess walked a hyena, scattered the birds every which way, picked off a hunk and walked off—the very picture of a cowardly bully which is what a hyena is.

What interested me most in this tableau, as an example of perfect animal type-casting, were the maribou storks. Now a maribou stork is a tall, slender, prissy bird with a very long pointed beak. He has a dirty red head, bluish gray wings and a white front which looks like a shirt front and, with his long slender legs, he minces about with a sort of fraudulent gentility.

Because his long straight beak is unsuited for tearing flesh off, he stands aloof from the carcass, exuding moral disapproval of this deplorable scene—until a vulture gets a piece of flesh. Then he steals it from him. Just a flash of the long beak and the meat is down his gullet. They remind me, these maribou storks, of some lawyers I know who preach the law with great self-righteousness and somehow wind up with the boodle.

First come the predators, the adventurers, who do the killing and the hard work, and then come the scavengers and finally the lawyers. The human parallels are too painfully pat to be dwelt on.

Of course, you can argue that we endowed these appearances with these qualities after the fact, that we have assumed that a leonine head is a splendid thing because a lion is and that a vulture-like appearance is repulsive because a vulture is (though how, how by any standards of beauty, a vulture could be considered handsome, I can't imagine).

But then how do you explain the maribou stork? I never heard of a maribou stork before I got here and believe me, he looks the part.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

NEGATIVE EVIDENCE

The key to the play in the following deal (as in so many other cases) was the fact that an opponent had not made a certain bid.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 8 7 ♥ 8 4 ♦ 7 5 3 2 ♣ A J 9 3 2
♠ 10 6 5 3 ♥ K Q J 10 ♦ Q 9 6 4 ♣ K	N W E S	♠ Q J 9 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 10 8 ♣ 10 8 7 4
	♠ A K 4 2 ♥ A 9 7 ♦ A K J ♣ Q 6 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the king of hearts and, South playing low, continued with the queen and jack. South had to take the third trick ,and he then led a low club to the jack, actually hoping to lose this finesse to East. (The suit would then presumably be cleared.) As it happened, however, the club king appeared from West—and now declarer had a problem.

South knew that West might be trying to hoodwink him by putting up the king from a holding of king-small, and if this was the case, all South had to do was win the trick and run off the entire club suit. But if West's king was really a singleton it might be fatal to take the trick with the ace—East would have the suit stopped and declarer would never take more than three club tricks.

Thus, the problem was whether to let West hold the trick, or to go up with the ace and test the clubs further, then, if they did not break, to rely on the diamond finesse. The danger of letting West hold the king, obviously was that he might then be able to lay down two more heart tricks, to defeat the contract on the spot.

South mentally reviewed the bidding. Surely, he reasoned, if if West had held a five-card heart suit headed by K-Q-J and probably the ten as well, he would have made a non-vulnerable one-heart overcall of one club. Thus, his failure to overcall carried the strong implication that his heart suit was only a four-carder.

Acting on this shrewd premise, declarer let the club king hold, and since West could then cash only one more heart trick, the contract was safe.

Television And Radio

How To Cast An Animal

KENYA, British East Africa. If the actors aren't careful, the animals are going to run off with all their jobs. As Walt Disney's nature movies have proved, they are very great hams and the public can hardly get enough of them. Out here where Marlin Perkins and a retinue of cameramen and technicians are shooting a series of wild animal pictures for forthcoming "Zoo Parade" programs, we have discovered the animals can be as temperamental as Ava Gardner when you try to photograph them.

They haven't the sense yet to demand money for their services but I expect ultimately they will when a Hollywood agent discovers what a gold mine he is neglecting. In that regard they have fallen well behind the Masei tribesmen who, when you point a camera at them, toss their orange nighties over their heads, leaving exposed only what you can't conceivably photograph. They won't emerge until you cross their palms with small coins. The day will come—you mark my words—when the elephants will retreat into deepest shade until you throw some silver out on the plains to lure them out where you take pictures.

It's a maddening business, taking pictures of wild animals, but it is endlessly fascinating. One thing that struck me almost immediately is how perfectly typecast animals are. The nobility and grandeur of the lion, the ponderous dignity of the elephant, the savage irascibility of the rhino—in every case I can think of, the appearance of the animals almost exactly matches their characters. Those are rather obvious examples but it seems to follow right through the animal kingdom. The other day we were watching a score of vultures tear into the carcass of an elephant. Their table manners are not pretty and neither are their scavenging habits and neither are their looks. Into this mess walked a hyena, scattered the birds every which way, picked off a hunk and walked off—the very picture of a cowardly bully which is what a hyena is.

What interested me most in this tableau, as an example of perfect animal type-casting, were the maribou storks. Now a maribou stork is a tall, slender, prissy bird with a very long pointed beak. He has a dirty red head, bluish gray wings and a white front which looks like a shirt front and, with his long slender legs, he minces about with a sort of fraudulent gentility.

Because his long straight beak is unsuited for tearing flesh off, he stands aloof from the carcass, exuding moral disapproval of this deplorable scene—until a vulture gets a piece of flesh. Then he steals it from him. Just a flash of the long beak and the meat is down his gullet. They remind me, these maribou storks, of some lawyers I know who preach the law with great self-righteousness and somehow wind up with the boodle.

First come the predators, the adventurers, who do the killing and the hard work, and then come the scavengers and finally the lawyers. The human parallels are too painfully pat to be dwelt on.

Of course, you can argue that we endowed these appearances with these qualities after the fact, that we have assumed that a leonine head is a splendid thing because a lion is and that a vulture-like appearance is repulsive because a vulture is (though how, how by any standards of beauty, a vulture could be considered handsome, I can't imagine).

But then how do you explain the maribou stork? I never heard of a maribou stork before I got here and believe me, he looks the part.

Contract Bridge

by Josephine Culbertson

NEGATIVE EVIDENCE

The key to the play in the following deal (as in so many other cases) was the fact that an opponent had not made a certain bid.

South dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

	♠ 8 7 ♥ 8 4 ♦ 7 5 3 2 ♣ A J 9 3 2
♠ 10 6 5 3 ♥ K Q J 10 ♦ Q 9 6 4 ♣ K	W E N S	♠ Q J 9 ♥ 6 5 3 2 ♦ 10 8 ♣ 10 8 7 4
	♠ A K 4 2 ♥ A 9 7 ♦ A K J ♣ Q 6 5

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 ♣	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
3 NT	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the king of hearts and, South playing low, continued with the queen and jack. South had to take the third trick ,and he then led a low club to the jack, actually hoping to lose this finesse to East. (The suit would then presumably be cleared.) As it happened, however, the club king appeared from West—and now declarer had a problem.

South knew that West might be trying to hoodwink him by putting up the king from a holding of king-small, and if this was the case, all South had to do was win the trick and run off the entire club suit. But if West's king was really a singleton it might be fatal to take the trick with the ace—East would have the suit stopped and declarer would never take more than three club tricks.

Thus, the problem was whether to let West hold the trick, or to go up with the ace and test the clubs further, then, if they did not break, to rely on the diamond finesse. The danger of letting West hold the king, obviously was that he might then be able to lay down two more heart tricks, to defeat the contract on the spot.

South mentally reviewed the bidding. Surely, he reasoned, if if West had held a five-card heart suit headed by K-Q-J and probably the ten as well, he would have made a non-vulnerable one-heart overcall of one club. Thus, his failure to overcall carried the strong implication that his heart suit was only a four-carder.

Acting on this shrewd premise, declarer let the club king hold, and since West could then cash only one more heart trick, the contract was safe.

Some Negro Children May Choose School

Overcrowding To Limit Integration

When the 1955-56 school term opens next month, some students of Carver High School here and Lincoln Elementary School, Frostburg, will have a choice of enrolling in their neighborhood school or continuing their studies at the school where they have been attending.

The integration of Negro students into other public schools of the county was discussed at length yesterday afternoon during a meeting of the Board of Education.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, discussed data on the school population, the location of residences of the families to be affected, and the results of the survey conducted by the board this summer.

Reports On Survey

Webster reported the survey among the county's Negro families revealed that the majority of them wanted their children to attend the schools of their neighborhoods. There are about 272 school age Negro children in the county.

Following the discussion yesterday the board decided on the following plan:

Negro students who desire to enter the fifth and sixth grades of West Side School and Columbia Street Schools may do so, although no Negro students will be able to enroll in Gephart School due to overcrowded conditions.

These three elementary schools were denoted as "pressure areas" where overcrowded conditions exist. All other elementary schools will be open to students formerly attending Carver who wish to attend their neighborhood school.

Will Ease Situation

Next year with the completion of Bowman's Addition School, children who will enroll in that school, will ease the situation now prevalent in West Side and Columbia. Pupils from the Bowman's Addition sector have been attending school at the two latter schools.

Due to overcrowded conditions in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools, students of Carver will not be able to enroll in those three grades this fall.

However, students in grades 10, 11, and 12, formerly attending Carver High School, who wish to transfer to Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools may do so.

In Frostburg, students formerly attending Lincoln Elementary School or Carver High School may enroll in Hill Street Elementary, Beall Elementary or Beall High School if they so desire.

Webster pointed out that students of Carver who wish to attend grades 10, 11 and 12 at Fort Hill or Allegany, may register tomorrow and Friday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the two schools.

Those desiring to transfer to Beall High School may register on the same two days at the same hours. Elementary school children may register on Wednesday, August 31, from 9 a. m. until noon, Webster added.

Classes in public schools of the county will begin Tuesday, September 6, with half-day sessions scheduled that day and Wednesday, September 7. Full days will be held on Thursday, September 8, and Friday, September 9, Webster added.

Dial Center Normal After Busy Monday

Cumberland's dial center was in "good shape" yesterday and was operating with virtually no tieups.

It was a great improvement, officials said, over hectic Monday, when the two exchanges were called upon to handle 151,000 calls.

About 89,000 calls, officials said, would be a normal load for this time of the year.

Many of the difficulties resulting from the new procedure may be cleared up within the next few days.

A crew of 35 operators was busy yesterday, calling each customer served by the Parkview exchanges, offering to answer questions concerning dialing procedure and making sure the customer has received a new directory.

The biggest problem encountered, now that most customers are familiar with the dial tone, officials said, is that many people still confuse the letter O with the number zero.

Prize Livestock Entries

Most Forestry Camp Boys Come From Baltimore Area

The 14 boys at the Green Ridge Forestry Camp as of July 31 came from Baltimore City and four Maryland counties, according to the monthly financial and statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Six of the boys came from Baltimore County, five from Baltimore City and one each from Anne Arundel, Calvert and Prince George's counties. During the month five boys were discharged from the camp. The rehabilitated youngsters who returned to their homes included three from Prince George's County and one each from Baltimore and St. Mary's counties.

The new camp, which was opened early in May, had nine youngsters enrolled at the first of the month. Ten more were admitted while five were discharged. Six of the 10 new campers came from the Maryland Training School for Boys and four from Boys' Village of Maryland.

Statistical data included in the report showed a slight decline in most forms of welfare payments in Allegany County during July.

Some 638 residents of this county got $26,052.06 in old age assistance, an average of $40.83 each last month. Nine individuals were added during the month while 10 other grants were cancelled, leaving a decline of one. Some 239 Garrett countians were paid $9,528.86, an average of $39.87 each.

Aid to dependent children showed a drop as grants to 15 families were cancelled while 12 others were added. As a result 335 Allegany County families with 924 children were granted $29,296.04 in payments, an average of $87.45 per family. Garrett County gave $10,193.03 to 118 families with 388 children, an average of $86.38 per family.

Public assistance to needy blind in this county remained unchanged in July. There still were 29 individuals getting $1,295.15 in assistance, an average of $44.66.

B&O Traffic Resumes After Cars Derail

No. 12 Arrives 40 Minutes Late

The derailment of 11 cars from a fast freight near Bloomington early yesterday afternoon halted traffic on the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad's Cumberland Division for about six hours.

One of the three tracks blocked by the derailed cars was opened by work crews at 8:05 p. m. and other tracks were being placed back into service as trains rolled over the tracks at Bond Tower, about five miles west of Bloomington.

The derailment caused a 40 minute delay in the arrival of No. 12, due into Cumberland at 8:45 p. m.

Officials said nobody was injured in the accident which caused the derailment of 11 cars and the toppling over of a caboose standing on an adjoining track.

The wreck occurred at 2:14 p. m. as the 11th car of High Car No. 96, on a Grafton to Cumberland run, derailed while passing a switch.

Ten empty cars and one loaded with bottles piled up and blocked all three main running tracks. There were about 119 cars on the fast freight which was running around an eastbound coal train stopped on No. 2 track.

The derailed cars struck and knocked over the caboose of the coal train.

John F. Eidrig, 209 Union Street, Cumberland, was the engineer of the fast freight.

Park Side Is Name Of New School

The name of the new elementary school which has been constructed in LaVale and will be ready for occupancy when the school term opens next month is going to be Park Side School.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, announced yesterday that the name was selected during a meeting of the Board of Education.

The school was built along Parkside Boulevard and it was decided to name it after the boulevard. In other business taken up yesterday during the meeting, the board approved the awarding of insurance on boilers of county schools to the American Motorist Insurance Company which submitted a low bid of $3,233.

The local agency of the company is Barnes, Barnard and Geare. The insurance will be in effect for a three year period, Webster added.

The other bidder was Weibel and Workmeister who submitted a bid of $3,797.86.

The Indemnity Insurance Company of North America, (Barnes, Barnard and Geare Agency) was awarded the bid for insurance covering school buses.

Their bid of $2,042.37 was the lowest bid received from six bidders. Others who submitted bids were Farm Bureau, $2,143.07; American Farmer, $2,614.44; S. T. Weatherholt Agency, $2,724.60; Erie Insurance Exchange, $3,916.56 and Pennsylvania Threshermen and Farmers Mutual Casualty, (George W. Brown Agency,) $4,548.61.

Barnard Named Classified Chairman In Chest Drive

The chairman of the classified section of the 1955-56 Cumberland Community Chest Drive which has a goal of $125,974, will be Robert E. Barnard, local insurance firm official.

Charles L. Kopp, general chairman of the United Fund campaign, pointed out that this year will mark the return of the Salvation Army to the Chest drive as a member Red Feather agency.

The goal of $125,974 was established by the budget committee headed by Ernest M. Peuschel.

One of the more important parts of this campaign to meet the $125,974 challenge is the chairmanship of the classified section.

Is War Veteran

This group, which contacts the large industries and business firms, has a veteran of nine years service in chest classified section work. Last year Barnard was chairman of the section.

Barnard is a partner in the insurance firm of Barnes, Barnard and Geare. A veteran of World War II, he is married to the former Miss Josephine Williams and resides at 806 Buckingham Road.

Peuschel reports that the nine Red Feather Agencies budget requests plus three routine Chest items originally totaled $136,412—all of which was justified by the groups.

The budget committee considered these requests and paved the overall total of $10,538.87 to the $125,974.06 goal.

Is Back In Chest

Last year, Community Chest drive workers raised the goal of $97,999.23.

The reason for the increased figure for this year is the welcoming back of the Salvation Army into the United Fund, plus modest, reasonable increases in a number of the agencies.

The Salvation Army conducted its own campaign for the past two years, but this year it was decided that Cumberland should have a United Fund for all the Red Feather agencies.

The one noticeable increase is for the Associated Charities which has been granted an award of $30,000 as compared to its $27,505 grant.

This additional sum will go toward a second case worker. During the year that ended, Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, and her assistant, Miss Doris Messman, handled 2,300 cases,—an average of 820 persons a month.

In addition there were 32,099 callers in the office in the City Hall, and 34,146 phone calls. All of this was handled by the two women, in addition to a tremendous amount of other required work in administration of the agency.

Increases Slated

Other increases set by the budget committee consist of $600 for Boy Scouts; $200 for Girl Scouts; $99 for Jewish Welfare Society; $197 for Keating Day Nursery; $100 to Travelers Aid, and $1,000 to the YMCA.

Fish Rodeo Is Planned Saturday

Annual Contest Is Planned At Oldtown

The seventh annual fishing rodeo for the children of Cumberland and Allegany County will be held Saturday, August 27, between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. at the Battie Nixon Fishing Hole in the C&O Canal near Oldtown.

Co-sponsored by the City Recreation Department, the Oldtown Sportsman's Club and the Cumberland Outdoor Club the event annually draws from 1,500 to 2,000 fishermen between the ages of eight and 16 years.

Youngsters who want to try their luck should register at their playgrounds or at the City Rec Department office in the City Hall.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said buses will provide transportation to and from the fishing hole, leaving Centre Street Playground, Penn Avenue playground, North End playground, Mapleside and City Hall Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. He added that all children registered on playgrounds other than those where transportation is provided should contact the rec department office, telephone PA 2-7360.

Milk Is Donated

Each youngster brings his own lunch. Milk to go with the lunches will be donated by local dairies. Prizes will be awarded in various divisions of the fishing rodeo.

The program is conducted through municipalities all over the country and was originated by Better Fishing, Inc., of Chicago. Its purpose is to give boys and girls, 16 and younger, a chance to get acquainted with the recreational value of fishing. A dual purpose is to give the future fishermen of America education in Sportsmanship and conservation.

More than 1,700 youngsters attended the affair last August and Richard Johnson, 14, of 36 Mary Street, was awarded the P. O.

City Will Set Tax Rate, Adopt Budget Today

Boost In Operating Levy Seems Certain

The Mayor and Council will meet today at 9 a. m. in the Council Chamber to set the 1955-56 levy and approve the budget for city operations for the current fiscal year.

Officials declined to comment on what the tax rate will be, but there were indications that the boost will be from 12 to 14 cents.

The 1954-55 tax rate was $1.36, divided between .3303 for debt service and $1.0297 for operating expenses.

Will Follow Trend

There were indications that the rates set today will follow the trend of the past 18 years or so.

This is that the cost of debt service has been decreasing and operating expenses going up.

In the 1938-39 levy, 43.2 cents was required to service the city's debt. By 1942 the cost had dropped to 37.4 cents; 1950, 37 cents and last year, 33.03 cents.

The current tax rate will include 33.02 cents for debt service.

Operating expenses, which reflected 66.8 cents on the 1938 tax rate, was at the $1.0297 mark last year, attributed to the gradual increase in the costs of materials and labor.

Since the debt service is to be virtually the same as last year, any increase in the tax rate will be for operating expenses.

Under consideration are wage increases ranging up to 10 per cent, plus provisions for a fund to be used in meeting social security payments.

Less Than County

One source said the city tax rate will not rise as high as the county.

He said the county tax rate for the current year rose from $1.80 to $2.05, a boost of 14 per cent.

Granting about 10 per cent for wage boosts and social security would boost the city rate to about $1.50, or about 10 per cent in the tax rate.

In setting the rate, the city will have the advantage of a slight increase in assessments, which will be $74,300,000 instead of $73,400,000.

Several of the cars are shown in the photo taken shortly after the cars piled up early yesterday afternoon. Traffic was moving over one of the tracks by early evening.

Some Negro Children May Choose School

Overcrowding To Limit Integration

When the 1955-56 school term opens next month, some students of Carver High School here and Lincoln Elementary School, Frostburg, will have a choice of enrolling in their neighborhood school or continuing their studies at the school where they have been attending.

The integration of Negro students into other public schools of the county was discussed at length yesterday afternoon during a meeting of the Board of Education.

Ralph R. Webster, superintendent of Allegany County schools, discussed data on the school population, the location of residences of the families to be affected, and the results of the survey conducted by the board this summer.

Reports On Survey

Webster reported the survey among the county's Negro families revealed that the majority of them wanted their children to attend the schools of their neighborhoods. There are about 272 school age Negro children in the county.

Following the discussion yesterday the board decided on the following plan:

Negro students who desire to enter the fifth and sixth grades of West Side School and Columbia Street Schools may do so, although no Negro students will be able to enroll in Gephart School due to overcrowded conditions.

These three elementary schools were denoted as "pressure areas" where overcrowded conditions exist. All other elementary schools will be open to students formerly attending Carver who wish to attend their neighborhood school.

Will Ease Situation

Next year with the completion of Bowman's Addition School, children who will enroll in that school, will ease the situation now prevalent in West Side and Columbia. Pupils from the Bowman's Addition sector have been attending school at the two latter schools.

Due to overcrowded conditions in the seventh, eighth and ninth grades of Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools, students of Carver will not be able to enroll in those three grades this fall.

However, students in grades 10, 11, and 12, formerly attending Carver High School, who wish to transfer to Fort Hill and Allegany High Schools may do so.

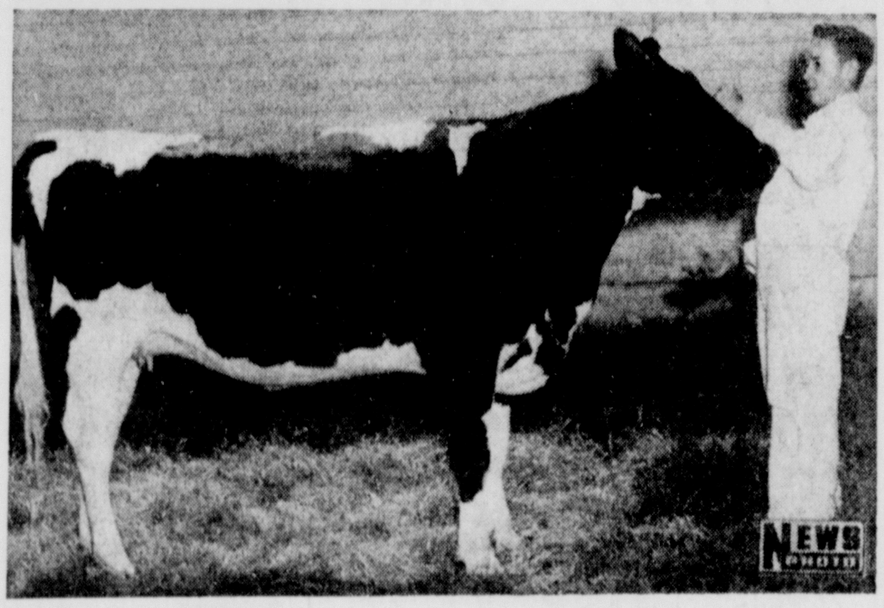

In Frostburg, students formerly attending Lincoln Elementary School or Carver High School may enroll in Hill Street Elementary, Beall Elementary or Beall High School if they so desire.

Webster pointed out that students of Carver who wish to attend grades 10, 11 and 12 at Fort Hill or Allegany, may register tomorrow and Friday from 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. at the two schools.

Those desiring to transfer to Beall High School may register on the same two days at the same hours. Elementary school children may register on Wednesday, August 31, from 9 a. m. until noon, Webster added.

Classes in public schools of the county will begin Tuesday, September 6, with half-day sessions scheduled that day and Wednesday, September 7. Full days will be held on Thursday, September 8, and Friday, September 9, Webster added.

Prize Livestock Entries

Most Forestry Camp Boys Come From Baltimore Area

The 14 boys at the Green Ridge Forestry Camp as of July 31 came from Baltimore City and four Maryland counties, according to the monthly financial and statistical report of the State Department of Public Welfare.

Six of the boys came from Baltimore County, five from Baltimore City and one each from Anne Arundel, Calvert and Prince George's counties. During the month five boys were discharged from the camp. The rehabilitated youngsters who returned to their homes included three from Prince George's County and one each from Baltimore and St. Mary's counties.

The new camp, which was opened early in May, had nine youngsters enrolled at the first of the month. Ten more were admitted while five were discharged. Six of the 10 new campers came from the Maryland Training School for Boys and four from Boys' Village of Maryland.

Statistical data included in the report showed a slight decline in most forms of welfare payments in Allegany County during July.

Some 638 residents of this county got $26,052.06 in old age assistance, an average of $40.83 each last month. Nine individuals were added during the month while 10 other grants were cancelled, leaving a decline of one. Some 239 Garrett countians were paid $9,528.86, an average of $39.87 each.

Aid to dependent children showed a drop as grants to 15 families were cancelled while 12 others were added. As a result 335 Allegany County families with 924 children were granted $29,296.04 in payments, an average of $87.45 per family. Garrett County gave $10,193.03 to 118 families with 388 children, an average of $86.38 per family.

Public assistance to needy blind in this county remained unchanged in July. There still were 29 individuals getting $1,295.15 in assistance, an average of $44.66.

Garrett County counted 24 cases which got $974.23, an average of $40.59. Some $2,765.84, an average of $47.69 per child, was paid for foster care for 56 children. Payments aggregating $451.50 were paid for 10 foster children in Garrett County.

Dial Center Normal After Busy Monday

Cumberland's dial center was in "good shape" yesterday and was operating with virtually no tieups.

It was a great improvement, officials said, over hectic Monday, when the two exchanges were called upon to handle 151,000 calls.

About 89,000 calls, officials said, would be a normal load for this time of the year.

Many of the difficulties resulting from the new procedure may be cleared up within the next few days.

A crew of 35 operators was busy yesterday, calling each customer served by the Parkview exchanges, offering to answer questions concerning dialing procedure and making sure the customer has received a new directory.

The biggest problem encountered, now that most customers are familiar with the dial tone, officials said, is that many people still confuse the letter O with the number zero.

The budget committee considered these requests and paved the overall total of $10,538.87 to the $125,974.06 goal.

Is Back In Chest

Last year, Community Chest drive workers raised the goal of $97,999.23.

The reason for the increased figure for this year is the welcoming back of the Salvation Army into the United Fund, plus modest, reasonable increases in a number of the agencies.

The Salvation Army conducted its own campaign for the past two years, but this year it was decided that Cumberland should have a United Fund for all the Red Feather agencies.

The one noticeable increase is for the Associated Charities which has been granted an award of $30,000 as compared to its $27,505 grant.

This additional sum will go toward a second case worker. During the year that ended, Miss Jeannette Bonig, executive secretary, and her assistant, Miss Doris Messman, handled 2,300 cases,—an average of 820 persons a month.

In addition there were 32,099 callers in the office in the City Hall, and 34,146 phone calls. All of this was handled by the two women, in addition to a tremendous amount of other required work in administration of the agency.

Increases Slated

Other increases set by the budget committee consist of $600 for Boy Scouts; $200 for Girl Scouts; $99 for Jewish Welfare Society; $197 for Keating Day Nursery; $100 to Travelers Aid, and $1,000 to the YMCA.

Fish Rodeo Is Planned Saturday

Annual Contest Is Planned At Oldtown

The seventh annual fishing rodeo for the children of Cumberland and Allegany County will be held Saturday, August 27, between 11 a. m. and 3 p. m. at the Battie Nixon Fishing Hole in the C&O Canal near Oldtown.

Co-sponsored by the City Recreation Department, the Oldtown Sportsman's Club and the Cumberland Outdoor Club the event annually draws from 1,500 to 2,000 fishermen between the ages of eight and 16 years.

Youngsters who want to try their luck should register at their playgrounds or at the City Rec Department office in the City Hall.

Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, said buses will provide transportation to and from the fishing hole, leaving Centre Street Playground, Penn Avenue playground, North End playground, Mapleside and City Hall Saturday morning at 9:30 o'clock. He added that all children registered on playgrounds other than those where transportation is provided should contact the rec department office, telephone PA 2-7360.

Milk Is Donated

Each youngster brings his own lunch. Milk to go with the lunches will be donated by local dairies. Prizes will be awarded in various divisions of the fishing rodeo.

The program is conducted through municipalities all over the country and was originated by Better Fishing, Inc., of Chicago. Its purpose is to give boys and girls, 16 and younger, a chance to get acquainted with the recreational value of fishing. A dual purpose is to give the future fishermen of America education in Sportsmanship and conservation.

More than 1,700 youngsters attended the affair last August and Richard Johnson, 14, of 36 Mary Street, was awarded the P. O.

City Will Set Tax Rate, Adopt Budget Today

Boost In Operating Levy Seems Certain

The Mayor and Council will meet today at 9 a. m. in the Council Chamber to set the 1955-56 levy and approve the budget for city operations for the current fiscal year.

Officials declined to comment on what the tax rate will be, but there were indications that the boost will be from 12 to 14 cents.

The 1954-55 tax rate was $1.36, divided between .3303 for debt service and $1.0297 for operating expenses.

Will Follow Trend

There were indications that the rates set today will follow the trend of the past 18 years or so.

This is that the cost of debt service has been decreasing and operating expenses going up.

In the 1938-39 levy, 43.2 cents was required to service the city's debt. By 1942 the cost had dropped to 37.4 cents; 1950, 37 cents and last year, 33.03 cents.

The current tax rate will include 33.02 cents for debt service.

Operating expenses, which reflected 66.8 cents on the 1938 tax rate, was at the $1.0297 mark last year, attributed to the gradual increase in the costs of materials and labor.

Since the debt service is to be virtually the same as last year, any increase in the tax rate will be for operating expenses.

Under consideration are wage increases ranging up to 10 per cent, plus provisions for a fund to be used in meeting social security payments.

Less Than County

One source said the city tax rate will not rise as high as the county.

He said the county tax rate for the current year rose from $1.80 to $2.05, a boost of 14 per cent.

Granting about 10 per cent for wage boosts and social security would boost the city rate to about $1.50, or about 10 per cent in the tax rate.

In setting the rate, the city will have the advantage of a slight increase in assessments, which will be $74,300,000 instead of $73,400,000.

Clearing The Tracks
